atican Opens New hase with Reich y Radio Speech

"Pay No Heed"

atican Refuses to Clarify Address — Speech Chides Promise Believers

Vatican City, April 2 (AP)—Another chapter was added to the history of the Catholic Church's relations with Germany today by the issuance of an assertion by a Vaetican news service that a Vatican radio broadcast last night was made "without the knowledge of the (papal) secretary of state."

This broadcast spoke of pastors who "short-sightedly join the victorious of the day." It was made to refer to the Austrian Catholic Church by quoting an editorial in L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, which said the Vatican had no knowledge of the Catholic Bishops' declaration read in Austrian churches March 27.

Vatican City, April 2 (AP)—A new factor in relations between the vatican and Germany has been developed by a vatican radio broadcast which referred to pastors who "no longer recognize the wolf in sheep's clothing."

The speaker—who was not named on the radio—made his address in German.

He said his broadcast related to the recent declaration of Theodore Cardinal Innitzer of Vienna in a pastoral letter last Sunday that asked for a favorable vote on Austro-German union in the April 10 plebiscite.

The radio speaker mentioned pastors who "believe promises in spite of the fact that sad experiences and, above all, the word of the Supreme Pastor, give them warning."

A Vatican news service distributed an Italian text of the speech at 2:30 a. m. (8:30 p. m., E. S. T., Friday.)

Vatican officials, however, maintained complete reserve regarding the significance of the broadcast.

The address followed a statement published in L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, which said the Vatican had not been consulted by the Austrian bishop before or after the pastoral letter was issued.

Refers to Attacks

Referring to attacks upon "political Catholicism", by National Socialism, the speaker said:

"Political Catholicism in the true sense means that the Pope or the bishop or the faithful must see that the dogmas of the Creator and Redeemer must be practiced in everything respecting the creation, both in the state and in society.

"Whoever wishes to attack or defame this Catholicism as true religion and Christianity fights against Christianity with the criminal force of the state's power."

"There is, however," the address continued, "a false political Catholicism. This false political Catholicism is more the manner and way of Catholics, whether they be simple believers or public office holders, who act solely out of overly wise caution and tactics

Oil Men Angry

But Mexico "Comforted" by United States Recognition of Right to Expropriate

Mexico City, April 2 (AP)—Mexico learned with relief today that trouble with the United States over oil expropriation was on the way toward friendly settlement.

But managers of the oil companies nationalized were anything but gratified.

One charged bitterly that "Washington let us down."

Another declared: "We might as well have thanked President Cardenas for expropriating our properties."

Mexicans, however, were generally "comforted," as one observer phrased it, by United States recognition of Mexico's right to expropriate foreign-owned property and willingness to see the companies' claims scaled down.

With national pride salved and incipient hostility toward the United States checked, there arose new speculation over how Mexico can solve her problem of paying for the oil properties.

One suggestion heard was that the government, having established title to the properties, "rent" them back to the 17 companies—13 of which were American-owned—the companies taking a percentage of crude oil produced for amortization of the debt.

President Cardenas, in a note last night to the United States, reiterated his country's intention to compensate the companies, but he gave no indication as to how it would be done.

MADAME QUEENA MARIO

Madame Queena Mario and Eugene Speicher Accept Invitations of Festival Committee

Madame Queena Mario, golden voiced soprano of the Metropolitan Opera House, and Eugene Speicher, nationally famous artist of Woodstock and New York, have been selected to choose the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival queen from a carefully selected group of the most beautiful girls in Ulster county. These famous artists will be assisted by several widely known Ulster county residents whose names will be announced later.

The ceremonies attendant to chosing the Apple Blossom Queen will be held in the auditorium of the New Paltz Normal School on Saturday evening, April 30. The queen will be crowned during the apple blossom festival in ceremonies at the Hasbrouck farm at Modena.

It was entirely due to the efforts af the Apple Blossom Queen committee composed of Mrs. Theodor Oxholm, chairman, and Mrs. Roger H. Loughran and Miss Agnes Scott Smith, that the two famous artists, one in music and the other in painting, gave consented to come to Ulster county that evening and select a festival queen.

Madame Mario is world famous and has sung the leading parts in many of the great operas of the world, including "Carmen," "Rigoletta," and is famous for portraying Hansel in "Hansel and Gretel." Her golden voice has been heard in every household where there is a radio for she has sung for many of the most famous programs on the air, including the Ford hour and the Fireside recitals. Madame Mario is a busy woman with her opera appearances, concert work and radio programs, but she has found the time to make a personal appearance before an Ulster county audience.

Eugene Speicher is nationally known as a painter, and many of his more important works are hung in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, the Albright Art Gallery in Buffalo; the Cleveland Museum in Cleveland and the Decatur Museum in Decatur and without question he is one of the most famous artists to make Woodstock his home during part of the year when he is not in his New York city apartments.

The Apple Blossom Queen committee said today that the other members of the committee to select the queen of the festival would be announced later when selected.

Abundance of Worry

Toledo, O., April 2 (AP)—A Lambertville motorist gave the Toledo Police Department an abundance of worry early today when officers found his blood-stained automobile on the right-of-way of the Wabash Railroad. A train was due in 15 minutes. Police first said the car had 15 bullet holes in it and visualized a vicious attack until it was discovered, hours later, that the holes had been made with a crank handle when the driver became incensed at the automobile. He told police he cut his face while trying to crank the car, hence the bloodstains.

To Study Ocean Bottom

Moscow, April 2 (AP)—Soviet Russia, having explored the far north from its ice floes and skies, disclosed plans today to send scientists into its depths. A batysphere, it was announced, is being designed for studies of the herring and cod fishing beds at the bottom of Barents Sea.

Weather Outlook for Week

More Beautiful High Falls Sought By Residents; Form Organization

Kingston Architect and Edward Huben Address Meeting Called to Promote Rondout Creek Town

Residents of High Falls village have become civic minded and on Thursday evening a large and enthusiastic audience was present at the High Falls fire hall for the purpose of forming an organization to beautify the little village which nestles at the foot of the Shawangung mountains along the banks of the Rondout creek.

Hubert Smith, chairman of the meeting, introduced as the first speaker Harry Halverson, prominent Kingston architect. He displayed a large map of the village of High Falls which he had drawn for the meeting. After discussing possibilities for improving the village by each person cleaning up his own property, he laid stress on the following points:

To know the history of the village. As an example he cited the fact that John Burroughs, famous naturalist, taught school on what is now the John Ham property.

To preserve and enhance the beauty of old land marks, such as the locks of the old Delaware & Hudson canal.

The DePuy house, built in 1789.

The First Dutch Church, which could be improved by planting shrubs.

The Catholic Church at the Rosendale end of the village, which could be improved by landscaping.

It was also noted that there were many desirable building lots around the village upon which improvements might be made.

Suggest Village Square

As an ultimate aim it was suggested that a "Village Square" might be located on the site of the old Flat Iron building between the Post Office and the Canal. That could be made beautiful with a lawn, shrubs and flowers. It was suggested also that perhaps an information booth

3 Persons Killed

Cairo, April 2 (AP)—Three persons were killed in the Nile Delta region today as lower Egypt voted in the general election, results of which thus far indicated a big majority for young King Farouk's handpicked cabinet. Police armed with batons guarded Cairo polling stations following reports that Wafdists (Nationalists) intended to create disturbance. The voting here was quiet, however.

CIO Employes Seize Michigan Utility

Jackson, Mich., April 2 (AP)—Electric and Gas service continued without interruption today despite seizure of six strategic plants of the Consumers Power Company in Southern Michigan by employes belonging to a committee for industrial organization union.

The employes, members of the Utility Workers' Organizing Committee, peaceably took possession of the plants last night after negotiations with the management for renewal of their contracts were terminated.

The company said the Union demands included upward revision of wages; the Union said it sought assurance there would be no reduction in wages.

Gov. Frank Murphy called representatives of the company and the U. W. O. C. to meet with him in Detroit Monday morning.

Albert Stonkus, U. W. O. C. National Director promised there would be no interruption of service for the 350,000 power customers "Not, at least, until we have a conference with Gov. Murphy. This is in keeping with a promise the Union made to the Governor last year."

Union members at Bay City said it was their intention to continue electric service but no construction work would be performed. There 15, night shift workers, all of whom were said to be members of the Union, took over operatoin of a substation. Monroe Crosley, President of the Bay City Local, assigned those not needed for operation of the plant to picket duty.

In Flint Union members seized two substations. Two dozen men entered each plant and quickly took over operation. Spokesmen said they were under orders from leaders in Jackson.

"The Bull" and 28 Others Convicted

New York, April 2 (AP).—Frankie "The Bull" Giordano and 28 others faced prison terms today in a conspiracy to violate the internal revenue tax laws.

The men were convicted last night by a federal court jury after a three weeks trial before Judge John C. Knox.

Among them are three New York city policemen and a federal tax unit inspector.

W. Mahlon Dickerson, assistant United States attorney, said the ring disposed of 10,000 gallons of low priced whiskey weekly, and that its operations in metropolitan New York and New Jersey had cost the government $3,000,000 in taxes.

The federal agent convicted was Theodore B. Turner, negro inspector in the alcohol tax unit. The policemen were Nelson Hellstrom, A. J. Kattenborn and Charles H. Howe.

Franco Nears Sea In Drive to Split Government Spain

Rebels' Foreign Legion Less Than 30 Miles from Mediterranean, Occupy Valderobies, Press Upon Lerida

France Interns Red Troops—Paris Studies Neutrality Angles

Zaragoza, April 2 (AP)—Insurgent Navarrese forces, undar General Garcia Valion today occupied Gandesa, only 21 miles from the Spanish Government's eastern coast—The last important stronghold in Tarragona Province barring the insurgent march to the Mediterranean.

Split Is Likely

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontier, April 2 (AP)—Generalissimo Franco's foreign legion today had less than 30 miles of rolling hills to pass before planting its red and gold banners on the seacoast and splitting government Spain.

The Legionnaire Corps, once commanded by Franco in Morocco and brought to the mainland to lead his insurrection, occupied Valderrobres, and pressed on toward Tortosa on the Ebro river coastal delta.

Northward, Gen. Juan Yague's Moorish corps hung on the outskirts of Lerida, the historic citadel that guards Barcelona, 89 miles away.

Although insurgents claimed government militia had evacuated the city, dispatches from observers with the Barcelona army said eight shock units of seasoned, well-trained troops occupied the town.

The government garrison, it was said, was commanded by the confident young officer who defended Teruel.

The city's 50,000 inhabitants had fled. Insurgents said the town was in flames. Subjected to incessant artillery bombardment, it rapidly was becoming a pile of mortar.

An insurgent bombing expedition was met by government planes over the city in a battle that lasted for hours.

The government said its counter-offensive on the Guadalajara front northeast of Madrid and at the rear of the insurgent drive toward the coast resulted in an advance of more than five miles.

The government also said a Phalangist (Fascist) company "annihilated" during the shelling and capture of Azor on the Teruel front.

3,000 Interned.

Bagneres De Luchon, France, April 2 (AP).—Three thousand Spanish government soldiers who fled into France to escape the insurgents, were interned today awaiting the French government's decision on whether their return to Catalonia would violate neutrality.

Orders had been issued for the Spanish militiamen to be sent back to their own country on three special trains but Paris abruptly countermanded these orders last night at the last minute and concentrated the fugitives in a camp, guarded by French soldiers and mobile guards.

French officials gave no reason for the sudden change of plans. Their policy heretofore had been to permit refugees to choose the Spanish faction to whose territory they wanted to return.

(The ministry of interior announced in Paris that measures would be taken to "cut short" the stay in France of Spanish militiamen who fled across the border.

(The nature of the measures expected to provide for return of these deserters to Spain was not made known immediately.)

Legally Justified.

The French cabinet contended then that since Generalissimo Francisco Franco had not been recognized as a belligerent, France was legally justified in disarming and returning the government fugitives to their own territory.

Last night's abrupt cancellation of orders indicated the issue had arisen whether such a move would constitute an act of intervention

The first week of the term will be devoted to the disposition of civil cases. A day calendar will be made up at the opening of court.

The fish were raised at the hatcheries at Rome and were all of legal size.

President Gives His Approval to Demand That Education Office Remain in Interior Department

Easier Change

Agrees to Let Congress Set Aside Any Orders by Simple Majority

Washington, April 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt, upon advice of House leaders, has agreed to a modification of the controversial Government Reorganization Bill.

Informed sources said today as the House convened to consider the program that Mr. Roosevelt had given his approval to a demand that the education office remain in the interior department and that Congress be permitted to set aside by a simple majority any of his reorganization orders under authority of the bill.

Rep. Warren (D-N. C), A member of the House Reorganization Committee, earlier had told newspapermen that when the House decided to resume general debate on the measure, he would have "An important announcement".

Roosevelt Agrees

President Roosevelt's modified position was taken, it was learned, when some of his leaders talked with him by telephone this morning about the setback they suffered last night when the House balked a move to shut off debate on the measure.

Earlier, administration leaders abandoned efforts, for the day at least, to impose restrictions on House discussion of the bill.

Speaker Bankhead announced the House would have a full and fair opportunity "to work its will" on the measure and that no further motion to close debate would be made during the day's session.

Bankhead's announcement, made at his press conference, was accompanied by his prediction that the bill eventually would be passed by the House despite the flood of telegrams and letters to members against it.

Before the House convened.—Key Republicans met with Snell of New York, their leader, to discuss strategy for fighting the bill. They did not disclose their plans.

Opposition Democrats also got their heads together.

Then when the session started, the oppositionists resumed their delaying maneuvers.

Forces Quorum Call

Stack (D-Pa.) forced a quorum call before Chairman Cochran (D-Mo) of the Reorganization Committee had a chance to move that consideration of the measure be resumed. The quorum call took half an hour.

Congressional Foes of "Big Navy" Say Use of Clause Means World Race

England and United States Base Decision on "Escalator" Clause on Japan's Refusal to Inform

Washington, April 2 (AP)—Congressional foes of a "Big Navy" asserted today that invocation by the United States and Great Britain of the "escalator" clause in the London Naval treaty would bring almost unlimited World Naval building.

"It's just the parliminary announcement of a world wide naval race," declared Senator Clark (D-Mo). Britain and the United States advised each other in notes made public last night that they would disregard the London treaty's limitation of 35,000 tons on the size of battleships.

Both based their action on the refusal of Japan to disclose whether she intends construction of larger vessels. The Japanese had been reported building a 42,000-ton battleship.

France, third signatory to the treaty, announced she would continue to adhere to the 35,000-ton limitation "So long as no continental power departs from that standard," presumably referring to Germany and Italy.

Informed officials said that the navy might begin drafting specifications for a superdreadnaught within the next few weeks, but that it probably would be at least five years before such a craft could be completed. The cost of a 42,000-ton battleship has been

Dr. Butler Gloomy, Asks Golf Weather

New York, April 2 (AP).—Nicholas Murray Butler, 76 today, is more interested just now in the weather than in politics.

If the weather is good, the Columbia University president said he would observe his birthday with a round of golf. If the weather is bad, he said he would find some other amusement.

As to politics, Dr. Butler said he was through "except behind the scenes."

One of the elder statesmen of the Republican party, he said he was pessimistic about its future.

"There are 16 to 18 million Republicans in the country," he said, "but to have a party you've got to have principles."

Dr. Butler said he would like to see the government start a drive toward creating employment rather than "paying people to do nothing."

2 Students Hurt

Ballston Spa, N. Y., April 2 (AP)—Two students suffered slight injuries today when fire destroyed the Charlton Industrial School near here, with damage estimated by school officials at $50,000. Superintendent Peter V. Barth said the blaze apparently was caused by defective wiring in the attic. The 20-year old one building school housed 25 boys.

Propose Employment Loans for R.R.'s

Washington, April 2 (AP)—Administration leaders discussed today a proposal to make "employment loans to selected railroads to spur industrial production and meet temporarily the rail finance problem.

Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash), who advanced the suggestion, said he believed government money might be used more profitably on railroads than any other field to promote recovery.

Senator Wagner (D-N. Y.) agreed. He said that replacements, repairs and improvements in all heavy industries now were lagging $5,000,000,000 a year behind previous peaks.

Schwellenbach estimated $1,000,000,000 might be required to finance such a railroad improvement program. He said it should be undertaken only in conjunction with a congressional pledge for a thorough study of the railroads' threatened bankruptcy aimed at finding a permanent solution by some definite date.

Schwellenbach's proposal was simple in terms but far-reaching in import.

The government would select, among competing lines, those which appeared the strongest financially and the "most logical" from the standpoint of traffic possibilities.

The R. F. C., or some other government agency to be set up, would lend these roads sufficient funds to establish their finances on a sound basis and put their facilities in first class shape.

These loans would be made with the requirement that the major share of the money be spent for work-producing materials or improvements.

Governor Busy

Lehman Toils Over Remaining Bills Showered Upon Him by Legislature

Albany, N. Y., April 2 (AP)—Governor Lehman, still faced with the task of acting upon 734 bills by April 18 after a week in which he signed 171 measures and vetoed 21, forsook today his usual week-end in New York city to continue a study of the remaining legislation.

One of the latest measures approved by the Democratic executive will provide a $6,000 a year pension to Major General John F. O'Ryan, retired commissioned officer of the National Guard and commander of the 27th division overseas.

Among other new laws are those to:

Make the wilful depositing of snow and ice on public highways a misdemeanor, subject to a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars, and on town highways subject to a penalty of ten dollars to be recovered by the town highway superintendent.

Empower the state correction commission to close county penitentiaries and court detention pens after notice to local authorities, the same as with county, city, town and village jails as at present.

Define the seating capacity of omnibuses to mean adults.

Permit a person to make a complaint of an attack by a dangerous dog to a village police justice, the same as to town peace officers and city magistrates as at present.

Lehman voted bills which were designed to increase the state's share of maintaining tramps and felons in penitentiaries from 60 to 80 cents a day and to permit laborers on rural highway construction projects to work six instead of five days from May 1 to November 15.

Religious Play at The Redeemer

"Dust of the Road," a one-act religious drama, will be presented at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers street, on Sunday, April 10 at 7:45 p. m. Written by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, "Dust of the Road" is a stirring dramatization of the old legend to the effect that Judas is allowed to return to earth once a year in order to plead with some soul that is tempted to betray friendship and trust for money. The four characters of the play and those portraying them are: Peter Steele, John Burgevin; Prudence Steele, Marie Lyons; The Tramp, S. Telford Read; The Old Man, Harland Wilber.

All four who are participating in the playlet have had considerable dramatic experience in connection with the local Theatre Guild. They have taken part in previous offerings of that organization and are cast at the present in the play: "Pride and Prejudice" which is to be given next week. Their ability assures an impressive presentation of "The Dust of the Road."

The directing of the play is in charge of S. Telford Read; the properties and stage settings are being supervised by Richard Bailey. The play strikes the right note for the opening of the Holy Week season inasmuch as it is scheduled for Palm Sunday and deals with the disciple of Christ who proved to be faithless.

Swastikas Over Vienna

This cafe in Vienna used to be the Splendide, but since "anschluss" with the German Reich it's Kaffee Deoutschland. Such changes, remaking the old Vienna familiar to tourists, were common as Hitler's forces took over the Austrian capital and reduced Austria to the status of a province.

American Labor Membership Drive

A drive to increase the membership in the American Labor Party in Ulster county started last night with a membership meeting of the local club at the Pythian Hall, 574 Broadway. A committee under the leadership of Jacob Schneider, chairman of the Ulster county group, will start work immediately in the Kingston area, together with the newly-formed Ellenville Club, who will also conduct a drive in that area. The membership in the county is steadily growing, and it is estimated that at the end of this drive the Ulster club will have grown considerably.

The next membership meeting of the club will be held on April 21, at which time George Martin, state organizer for the Labor Party, is scheduled to be present. This meeting, which is for members and interested friends, will be followed by a social party.

Trinity Lutheran Church Congregation Meeting

A regular congregation meeting will be held in the assembly rooms of the church, Monday evening, April 4, at 8 o'clock. Officers of the Ladies' Aid, Choir, Sunday School, Men's Club, Luther League, and Boys' Club are requested to attend with a report of the condition of their societies. The council would like to see a good turnout of members at this meeting as there will not be another regular congregation meeting until October 3. Refreshments will be served after the business session.

Ellenville Concern Sues.

New York, April 1 (Special)—Israel Halpert, as trustee in bankruptcy for Shell Metal Products, Inc., of Ellenville and New York, filed suit in United States District Court here today to recover from Harry D. Davenport and Leo R. Goehring the sum of $14,000, claimed to have been given them as preferential payments while the company was insolvent.

The preference, according to the complaint, took the form of a chattel mortgage on 85 per cent of all the property of the concern. It was given on November 30, 1936. The bankruptcy adjudication was on June 9, 1937.

The defendants are executives of Washburn Wire Company.

6,000 Apply For C.M.T.C. Training

New York, April 2.—Results of the first month of registration for the eighteenth annual Citizens' Military Training Camps show applications have been received from 6,000 qualified young men residing in New York, New Jersey, and Delaware, it was announced today at the U. S. Army's Second Corps Area Headquarters on Governors Island. The procurement quota for the three states is 6,800 applications.

With opening of the first C. M. T. C. encampments still three months away, applications will continue to be received by the Army after the 6,800 mark is passed, Army officials said. They explained that late-comers will be assigned to fill camp vacancies left by possible withdrawals resulting from changes in vacation plans.

To enter the C. M. T. C., candidates must be between 17 and 24 years, of good character and sound physique. No obligation for future military service is incurred by attendance. All necessary expenses are paid by the government, including transportation to camp and return, wholesome food, uniforms, athletic equipment, laundry service, and medical attention. Camps run for 30 days.

BrassLampTurned From Solid Metal

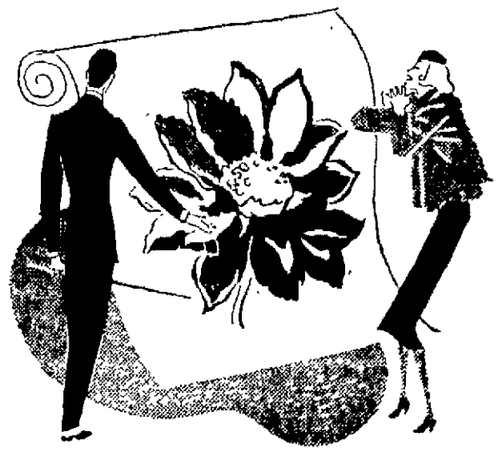

A heavy hand-made brass table lamp of unique design is attracting much attention in the Tweedie-Rich window on Fair street. The lamp was made for the Men's Club of St. John's Episcopal Church and is a sample of the artistic and mechanical ability of Harry Kapreilian, secretary-manager of the Charles Ramsey Corp., manufacturers of piano hardware at 15-19 Gage street.

The lamp is made of solid brass and bronze, and is shell shaped, the upper part being of bronze while the standard and heavy base are of brass, all highly polished. It stands about two feet high. A small standard extends from the top, with a cross arm from which is suspended two electric light bulbs.

It is a fine piece of work and a tribute to Mr. Kapreilian's skill in metal working.

'Dusting' Peaks That Veterans Avoid Is All In The Day's Work For Flyer, 22

(By The AP Feature Service)

Denver — For a farm lad who learned to fly where the golden eagles test their wings, a morning ride over the highest peaks of the Rockies is about as much an adventure as running around the block before breakfast.

"The higher you go, the smoother the air," says the former farm boy, Mark Schellenberg, 22.

He's so modest it's hard to get him to tell about his work. But he has "dusted off" most of the higher peaks of the Rockies that veteran pilots avoid.

His daily stint is to take a photographer of the U. S. forest service to a ceiling of about 24,000 feet so he can take pictures of Rockies. Hundreds of pictures are needed for mapping that rough country.

Schellenberg and his photographer have to be at least 10,000 feet above the subject. That means when they are getting set for a few candid shots of the west's 14,000-foot peaks they must be at least 24,000 feet above sea level.

"You can see for about 100 miles at that altitude if the air is clear," says Schellenberg. "If it wasn't for the curvature of the earth you could see farther."

Mark Schellenberg
"The Higher The Smoother"

Below them are miles of jagged peaks where a pilot would be hard pressed to find a landing, even if he had all day and plenty of gas.

But it's not the lack of soft spots, it's the treacherous up and down air currents that make most pilots avoid the high spots of the Continental divide. The tricky air has been known to smash planes against sharp peaks.

Lack of oxygen and cold are handicaps at those high altitudes.

"It always cold," Schellenberg says. "The warmest we ever found it was 18 above zero, in summer. The coldest was 20 below, but we never flew in January, the coldest month."

Schellenberg, slight of build, sandy complexion and blue eyes, came to Denver two years ago from his parents' farm in eastern Colorado and asked for a job at a Denver flying school. When he had his commercial license and about 100 hours experience, the school obtained a contract to "cover" most of the Rocky mountain region with forest service cameramen.

"Let me try it," said Schellenberg.

They did, and he's been at it ever since.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APR. 2, 1938

CULTURE EXILED

One of the strangest bits of news from Vienna since the Hitler coup is the persecution of Prof. Sigmund Freud, most famous of living psychologists. This distinguished Austrian is 82 years old, no longer actively engaged in his work, and apparently has done nothing against the Nazis. He is purely a professional man, asking for nothing but peace for his few remaining days. But Freud is a Jew. So the invading Nazis seize his property, detain him in his home and make life as miserable for him as possible. It is even doubtful whether they will let him find a haven in America, although out State Department is cooperating with Freud's American friends to provide a refuge for him here.

It is the same attitude that barbarian Nazis have taken against all authors, artists, scientists and intellectuals in general who are not supporting the Hitler "ideology". The most famous example is Prof. Einstein, greatest living mathematician, who had his property confiscated and was forced to flee to America. Another famous exile is Thomas Mann, perhaps the greatest living author, and the most distinguished literary figure in Germany since Goethe, driven from home because, while not opposing Nazism, he had not actively espoused it. The best brains of Germany have been driven abroad to freer and more appreciative lands, and it will be the same now with Austria. The Fatherland is no longer interested in intellectual things.

In this general flight of culture, attention has naturally been attracted most to the Jews, although they are but a part of it. While it is possible for free-souled nations to understand the "economic determinism" represented by Hebrew competition in business, it is hard to understand the persecution and exile of scientific men for merely racial reasons. What does science or culture have to do with race or religion? Is not this physical world the same for everybody? Is there any such thing as Nazi physics and mathematics? Has psycho-analysis anything to do with race?

FLEAS' DIET.

Experiments in Brown University are said to show that water fleas live nearly twice as long as usual if they have limited rations when young. Eating all they wanted to in this laboratory experiment, the fleas lived 29 days. Half-starved when young and then given a normal diet, they lived in vigor and full possession of their powers for 42 to 51 days. When the process was reversed, and they were fed heavily when young and then put on limited rations in maturity, their lives were shortened.

There is a natural temptation to apply this regimen to men. The professors say the results "may point to longer life in man." But that wouldn't necessarily follow. It's risky to experiment with human life, and people are worth more than fleas, and adequate experimentation in the human field might take a hundred years.

The tendency lately has been to feed children more food, of better quality, rather than the opposite, and school pupils seem to gain in strength, weight and mentality with such feeding. It may be questioned, though, whether such children will live longer on the average. Many people who suffered apparent privation when young seem to reach a vigorous old age. Perhaps the quality of the food is more important than the quantity. Possibly a little food with the proper vitamins is better than much food without them.

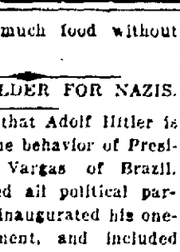

COLD SHOULDER FOR NAZIS.

It appears that Adolf Hitler is annoyed by the behavior of President-dictator Vargas of Brazil. Vargas banned all political parties when he inaugurated his one-man government, and included Nazi political activities within the ban. To the chagrin of admirers in Berlin he has failed to suppress anti-Nazi measures in outlying Brazilian states.

He has been thus remiss in spite of the fact that Germans in southern Brazil claim to have been so noble as to refrain from meddling with domestic affairs and "have merely claimed their natural legal right to advance their racial culture and build up their organization unhindered." It is hinted in Germany that Hitler may seek to "compel better treatment" of Nazis in Brazil.

Unless the Nazi organization itself is successful in boring from within, neither Vargas nor Brazil need fear Hitler. It is not possible yet for him to overwhelm and terrorize any country on this side of the Atlantic as he did Austria. The awesome tanks and guns and motorized army and huge police force that rolled and marched so swiftly into Austria can't make a similar dramatic entrance into Brazil. A mighty ocean intervenes.

VALUE OF RAW EGGS AND MILK

Some years ago I tried to put some weight on a patient who had been suffering with ulcer of the stomach. As the ulcer was healed, I suggested that he engage in light employment. An industrial firm had him make preliminary or first calls on householders. There was no particular mental effort required and as he was not "selling" anything on this visit, he received no rebuffs which might have caused emotional upsets. I felt that the fresh air, the fact that he was doing something useful, the fluid and soft diet—four to five times a day—should bring results. At the end of a few weeks he had gained a couple of pounds, looked and felt better.

However, he thought my method was a little slow and decided to go to another city to consult a physician whom he knew, who was aparently having great success with a body building bread. He returned a few months later, the picture of health, and had gained 30 pounds. I was greatly surprised with his appearance and told him I would have to take my hat off to his physician and his bread. I asked him about the bread and how often he ate it.

"Oh", he said, "I only ate the bread a couple of times and didn't like it, but Dr. Blank had me taking 20 raw eggs and 4 to 6 quarts of milk a day."

Twenty eggs and six quarts of milk means a great many calories when we remember that each egg is 75 calories—a total of between 5,000 and 6,000 counting the milk of which every glass contains 160 calories. However raw eggs and milk make up a soft diet, so easily handled by the digestive system.

It is interesting to see this same treatment being used in cases of unhealed peptic ulcer (ulcer of the stomach or of the small intestine) when the patient is not confined to bed. Clinical Medicine and Surgery states that Dr. Horace W. Soper, St. Louis, at the Mississippi Valley Medical Society meeting reported the case of a rolling mill worker who consumed 20 raw eggs and 4 quarts of undiluted milk daily. His peptic ulcer healed in six weeks, while he was carrying on his work.

Now the above treatment was given a strong rolling mill worker and might not be suitable for other cases of unhealed ulcer. It shows however the great healing and body building power of milk and eggs.

Couldn't get him to cross against the light again."

The Story So Far: Heartbroken because the man she loves has left her, Judith Goodloe decides to marry Reuben Oliver. This man, who has pulled himself up by his bootstraps, has one thing the aristocratic Goodloes need—money. Desperately in love with Judith, Reuben refuses to heed the warning of his partner, Clem Rogers, that unless he leaves the Maryland valley and gets back into the fight he is due for a financial licking. Clem's daughter, Cissy, who loves Reuben, will be the maid of honor.

Chapter 17

Enter—The Bride

REUBEN'S trip west lengthened from days into weeks. About the failure of the Lutie Justis he was not convinced.

"With up to the minute machinery the well will produce better than ever." He believed that. He had to believe it.

"I'm not sending one more of my good dollars after bad ones," Clem told him flatly.

"I'll go it alone," Reuben said.

"Want to buy my share?" sneeringly.

"Sure," proudly. It was madness.

That was that. For better or worse the well was all his. The installation of expensive new equipment began. The expense was appalling. Reuben's assets began to melt as snow before an April sun. He must have ready cash. He sacrificed some securities. He sacrificed his yacht—

Each day he wrote her short inadequate letters. "Things are panning out all right," he persuaded himself they were, "but I'll be a working man when I come home, darling—I wish I could come today."

During his absence a private wire had been run to Reuben's house. A ticker installed. Secretary engaged. Typists, clerks. The library was turned into an office. Telephones rang. Messengers came and went. Reuben came home a busy man of affairs, with his finger on the pulse of things.

Gone was his leisure. His dreamy contentment.

He was in a frenzy to recover his losses. This was not entirely due to the natural craving of a fighter for victory. It gained impetus whenever he thought of the Goodloes and he thought of them almost constantly. They respected him—rich. Poor—? He thought of Gary Brent too—an added spur.

He plunged into some not quite sound investments with the recklessness of desperation, depending upon his luck to see him through. If he could stay on the job—

"Would you mind postponing our trip awhile, Judith?" he asked the day he arrived home.

Her vivid face betrayed how devastated she would be. She was holding to that trip around the world with the same tenacious tensity with which an acrial artist clings to his trapeze. It was the fragile span—with its color, excitement, change, that was to carry her through the first hazardous months of her marriage. "Of course, if you can't leave, Reuben—"

"I can." Why worry about a bridge he might never have to cross? Each day was bringing order out of chaos, and when the good old Lutie Justis started again—

But—he knew he should have told her the true state of affairs. He was afraid to tell her. Whoever said love made men strong, lied. Love made men weak.

Wedding Or Funeral?

THEIR wedding day. One of those perfect days that September brings to Maryland.

While it was still morning Biddy O'Hare presented the bride with a leggy, wobbly, sorrel colt. Judith, disdaining the beauty sleep a bride is supposed to get, hurried to the paddock to welcome the newcomer.

"Oh, you precious!" She went down on her knees, helped the new sorrel to his wobbly legs and kissed the slate-gray muzzle.

Reuben watched her with a queer tightness in his throat. "What will you name him, Judy?"

"Paddy O'Hare."

"We'll christen him with wedding punch." Cissy suggested.

With a smile on her lips, dark despair in her heart, Cissy had arrived that morning. Her present—a mammoth old Sarouk had arrived ahead of her.

"If it's a wedding, let it be a wedding. If it's a funeral, let it be a funeral. Never mix the two."

It was a good motto. She said it over and over to sustain herself. She felt like a traveler in the desert lost in an endless stretch of hot, shifting sand. And Rube, the poor sap—sitting over an earthquake and pretending not to know.

The sooner this wedding was over the better, then she could go off somewhere and yowl her fool head off.

At last it was five o'clock. The bishop had taken his place between the long west windows. Sun streamed in on brightly attired women, on black coated men.

An orchestra under the stairway played softly. The bridesmaids—a veritable rainbow—ushers, flower girls, assembled in the hall, in chattering expectancy, among them Cissy, feeling as though she was about to witness an execution, but looking gorgeous as Cleopatra in shimmering, yellow brocaded chiffon velvet with touches of golden brown. Mammoth brown hat. Brown slippers with high gold heels, gold buckles that brought glances of praise and envy to Cissy's lovely feet. They were wasted today.

An unruly tear splashed down her tiptilted nose to the chrysanthemums in her hands. In five minutes Reuben would be married. All her aircastles founded and built years ago in the black mud of Warder were crashing down—while she stood here with a lot of giggling people!

She couldn't bear it! She broke from the waiting line, slipped through the open door.

Savagely she winked back the tears that threatened to blind her. Hurriedly she walked up and down the terrace, regardless of her filmy train dragging over the stones. She mustn't cry—she must not! Her stilt heels beat it out in sharp tattoo. She must not cry—

She didn't see the messenger boy on a bicycle until he was almost upon her. Startled she asked crossly: "What do you want?"

"Telegram for Mr. Oliver. Important!"

"Give it to me."

Mad, Dizzying Hope

SHE signed for it with not too steady fingers. Her heart was racing like a wild thing. She knew pretty well what the envelope in her hand contained. The new machinery had been tried out yesterday. It had failed then. It had failed today. It would fail again tomorrow. The Lutie Justis was done for.

For a long moment Cissy stood like a graven image, while turbulent emotions seethed within her and a light wind sent the yellow train swirling about her feet. What must she do? If she gave this to Reuben now—would the wedding go on?

Cissy shut her eyes. A mad, dizzying hope surged through her. If the wedding did not go on—?

She crushed the telegram in her hand. Tried to crush her longings with it. No use. This was her chance, her one chance for happiness. She had a right to fight for it. It would be different if Judith loved Rube—

"I'm not made of the stuff of martyrs," Cissy decided, "I want my happiness — warm, human—here and now—If Judith is a good sport — Everything's fair in love and war—" She was just Cissy—No one expected her to be fine and noble—

"I'll get this to Rube now!"

She walked towards the house.

An usher called excitedly from the doorway: "Hurry, we're waiting!"

Cissy stepped indoors — The bride was coming down the stairs—

An old stairway. A young bride. Youth and courage — descending slowly—step by step.

Judith still walked in a sort of trance, the leading lady in a great drama, which was unfolding magnificently. If there were long hours in the still of the night, when the stage was cleared, when she was seized with panic, it vanished with the rising sun and left her high-hearted to meet this day.

Sweet and untouched as an appleblossom she came faintly smiling. She wore her great grandmother's wedding gown, ivoried with age and shrouded in folds of priceless old lace.

"Ah-h-h!" A murmur like a June breeze blowing over a field of clover. "The Bride!"

Subconsciously Cissy stuffed the yellow envelope deep into the heart of her bouquet and moved forward with the procession. Moved mechanically — without sense of direction. She saw Dick Blount, rotund and warm beside Reuben, very straight with taut lips. His eyes adored Judith.

"God," prayed Cissy, into her woodbrown chrysanthemums, "Don't let her fail him. Help her, please, and forget all about me. I'm used to hoeing my own—"

The bishop impressively began to council the young pair before him to be patient, to be true. To bear with one another's weaknesses.

"What does she know about bearing anything?" thought Cissy fiercely, "What does she know except having her own way and being fussed over and—"

Mechanically she took the shower of white bridal bouquet Judith handed her. She knelt beside the bride. If she drew the telegram out of her own flowers now? Her fingers itched to draw it out.

YOUR NEW YORK STATE INCOME TAX

By MARK GRAVES,
Commissioner of Taxation and Finance

INTRODUCTION

Now that the federal income tax remains but a memory, once again it becomes necessary to remind taxpayers that New York State's personal income tax returns must be made on or before April 15.

The federal levy and state obligation should not be confused. They are two separate and distinct taxes, and compliance with the requirements of one does not remove the taxpayer's liability for the other.

If a person was required to pay a federal income tax, it is very probable that he will also have to pay the state tax. On the other hand, many persons not subject to the federal levy are liable under our state statutes.

Taxation is a subject difficult to popularize and quite impossible to dramatize, hence these articles will be confined to the briefest and simplest form with the hope that readers may find this series of assistance.

It may be that many will discover they are not subject to the tax. In any event, it is hoped that taxpayers will be furnished with facts, enabling them to make correct returns and to pay the accurate sum of tax due—no more and no less.

Who Must File

New York State's personal income tax for those reporting for the calendar year 1937 is due on or before April 15.

First to be considered is the matter of filing a return. Many who are not liable to a tax, are required by law to file returns, thus it is important that everyone consider the following facts:

A single person, having a net income of $1,000 or more, and married persons living together, who had an aggregate net income of $2,500 or more, must file returns.

Also—a single person having a gross income, from all sources, of $5,000 or more, and a husband and wife living together, having an aggregate gross income of $5,000 or more, are required to file returns, also.

Residents of other states who derived income from a business, occupation or property in New York State are likewise subject to this requirement. The same amounts specified above for residents, apply to non-resident groups.

All who filed returns last year were mailed return forms for this year. If, however, you are entering the taxpaying group for the first time this year, be certain to secure a form immediately from the nearest office of the Department of Taxation and Finance. District offices are located in Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany, New York city and Brooklyn.

Historic Churches of Ulster

(In conjunction with the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival, May 6, 7, 8.)

Ulster Park Reformed Church

The Esopus Reformed Dutch Church at Ulster Park, familiarly know as "The Old Brick Church," is the second oldest church south of the Rondout creek, the Dutch Church at New Paltz being some years older. The Ulster Park congregation was organized in 1791 by an act of the Classis of Kingston.

It was a long distance for the people of this section, known as Klyn Esopus and East New Paltz, to go to attend religious services. The only churches then existing were the Old Dutch Church in Kingston and the one at New Paltz. The people missed the privileges of church attendance and feared the devotional consequent upon non-church attendance. Therefore a petition signed by 93 of the prominent people, was presented to the Classis of Kingston, and at a meeting of the Synod of the Dutch Church in Poughkeepsie on June 1, 1790, the Rev. Stephen Goetchius with elders Isaac Blauvelt, president, and Peter DeWitt of New Palts, were appointed to meet with the signers of the petition and effect an organization and ordain elders and deacons.

Formal Petition.

The petition was very formal and dignified in its construction and wording, and ended with this sentence: "Being sensible of our want at this place and also the danger we and our children are in because of the confusion and power of error now prevailing, we therefore your humble petitioners, judging it our indispensible duty which we owe to God, ourselves, and our posterity, to be aiding and assisting to extend the borders of Zion, request your approbation and advice for erecting a congregation among us, and pray that the great Lord and Shepherd may bless our endeavors and gather us into one flock and fold."

The Classis of Kingston approved the application, and on the 27th of February, 1791, the committee, the Rev. Mr. Goetchius and elders Blauvelt and DeWitt, met with most of the inhabitants, received members, and chose a Consistory. The congregation was to be known as the "Low Dutch Church and congregation of Klyn Esopus." The first Consistory listed as Elders, Solomon Eckert, John DeGraff, Gideon Ostrander and Gariett Terpening and deacons, Albetus Schriver, Abram Van Aken, Adam Eckert and Jerry Wooster.

The original land grant of the Kingston Commons comprised a hundred or more acres. At present the extent of the church property is the lots on which the church and parsonage stand, the Community Hall, and a 40 acre wood lot.

The first church was a stone building standing on the site of the present parsonage. This was replaced in 1827 by the present brick edifice. The building has been twice remodeled; the first time about 1890 when the old pews were removed, hard wood floor laid, and the pulpit and altar changed. Again at the time of our hundredth anniversary in 1927, new walls and ceiling were put in. Through all the changes the galleries have remained intact, and the boxes for the slaves in the two corners are as they always were.

During the years since its organization, the building of other churches became necessary, so the old Klyn Esopus Church became the mother of the Port Ewen Dutch Reformed Church, the St. Remy Reformed Church, and the Union Chapel at Union Center which still remains a part of the Ulster Park congregation.

The first pastor was the Rev. Stephen Goetchius. His successors have been the Rev. Benjamin Van Keuren, the Rev. Abram Forb, the Rev. James Mac Farlane, the Rev. Abraham Meyers, the Rev. John Garretson, the Rev. Eugene Hill, the Rev. J. Howard Van Doren, the Rev. H. P. Lyman-Wheaton, the Rev. S. T. Cole, the Rev. D. T. Harris, the Rev. Joseph Millett, the Rev. Cornelius van Oostenbrugge, the Rev. George W. Culick, the Rev. Ralph H. Beaumont, and the present pastor, the Rev. George Berens who began his pastorate in February, of this year, and is also pastor of the Port Ewen Reformed Church.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—So you want to write a play!

Well, that's fine and I hope you win. But ...

More than 9,000 plays were copyrighted in Washington last year.

Of these only about 1 per cent were produced on Broadway. And less than 10 per cent of these made any appreciable amount of money.

So you can see your work is cut out for you.

Most of the big producers in New York get about 40 plays a week to read. They drop on their desks like autumn leaves. Some of these come directly from the authors, but a majority is presented through the regular agent channels.

This is the accepted way to do business. Let a play-agent read your manuscript. He will tell you quickly enough whether it has merit. If he considers it salesworthy, he will accept it and try to peddle it. He knows all the markets and all the arguments. And for his troubles he takes 10 per cent, which is dirt cheap.

MOST play-agents have a prestige to maintain and never touch manuscripts which, in their opinion, haven't every chance to be sold. This assures a producer any manuscript delivered is well worth his time. Without this middle-man he would be swamped with second-rate goods.

Most producers, as in the case of Milton Shubert, use the staff system in reading plays. Three readers will study the play. Then they write a brief synopsis and set down their opinions. If two of the three recommend it the producer then reads it himself. After this he makes up his own mind.

It is interesting to note that plays in America are presented in manuscript form, but abroad they are set up in type. This is okay for the foreign market, but printing in the U. S. is too expensive. It is better anyway, to have yours in manuscript form, so that corrections and deletions may be penciled in after your consultation with the producer, providing of course that you get that close to a producer.

AS FOR length, a page takes up about a minute in action, and a drama should last about two hours and a half. Most theater men agree it is better to overwrite, as cuts are always easier than making additions.

Now, please go on with your play. And don't think I am trying to discourage ambition. But, with those 9,000 copyrights in mind, I wouldn't spend my royalty checks just now. Not till I got them anyway.

They All Laugh

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"THAT wasn't telling an untruth," said Christopher, fearing perhaps he might be scolded for saying anything so utterly without reason.

"No, that was a good April Fool," laughed Willy Nilly. "It was really too impossible a thing for us to have believed for even one second.

"At first I thought perhaps the owner might have come for his animals—but it was only a thought that went hurrying through my head. I realized that he wouldn't do that, not when the animals had been here for the winter with me and since he has been very good about sending special bundles of food and special letters of direction so I wouldn't have to worry about them.

"Then you said they had vanished by themselves—and well—I shouldn't have let you fool me for even an instant. The very idea of tigers and elephants and leopards and monkeys and a hippo all vanishing as though they were a lot of butterflies!"

Christopher Columbus Crow came over and perched on the little man's shoulder. He gave him an affectionate peck with his beak. "You're a good sport to admit you were fooled."

"What about having a breakfast party to start off the day right?" suggested Willy Nilly. "I have time before I go to see if those wild animals are really here."

"Would you have us sit down and tell us to eat the food in front of us and then say 'April Fool' when we realized there was nothing to eat on the table?" asked Christopher.

"You can think up pranks," said Willy Nilly, "but I mean breakfast—not an April Fool one."

Monday—"Christopher's Announcement."

Paris (AP)—Two highlights for a dress of sober black and white print consist of a turquoise bead necklace—the beads as big as robins eggs—and turquoise gloves.

We are in the midst of hectic times, days laden with emotion, feeling, yes, indignation. ... But let us not get too indignant. ... It tends only to make us bigger fools than we already are.

FASHIONS and HOUSEHOLD HINTS FOR WOMEN

Here Is A Handful Of Aces To Take All Make-Up Tricks

By BETTY CLARKE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

When your husband gets out his flashiest tie, take that for a cue to try a new make-up trick.

Here's a handful of suggestions. Some may be too flashy, but they'll give you something to think about.

The new five-suit bridge deck inspires our first make-up stunt. It's done this way:

Trace silhouettes of the five symbols on transparent mending tape or gummed cloth and cut them out in duplicate, a set for each hand. Paste a symbol in the center of each nail as a mask, then brush on your polish. It doesn't matter how the polish lies on the patch because, before the polish is too dry you take a pin and lift each patch off.

That will leave the design in natural color. If you're ambitious, you can fill it in with white wax.

Warning: Though its inspired by bridge, you'd better not use this motif when you're playing the game.

Here are some other manicure stunts:

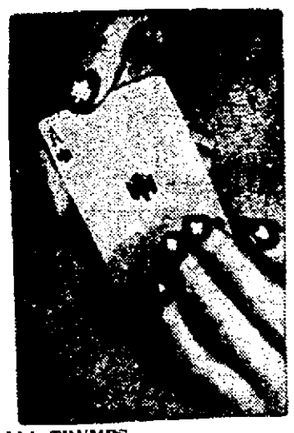

Paint the tips of your nails to match the gown you're wearing, but just the tips. Leave the rest of the nails colorless.

File your nails to a point. Then indent the polish a little at the base of the moon—and your nails will appear heart-shaped.

There are all sorts of ensemble tricks, too, involving make-up.

A striking daytime ensemble includes a very plain black dress set off by silver nail polish (down to the very tips) and heavy silver bracelet and necklace.

An unusual evening ensemble involves putting gold flecks in your hair, using gold nail polish, gold eye mascara and one or two pieces of gold jewelry.

ALL TRUMPS
Here's the latest in fingertip decorations—a manicure based on the new five-suit bridge deck.

Alfred Lunt, incidentally, wore silver eyeshadows over his eyebrows when he appeared in the role of Jupiter in "Amphitryon '38." Richard Whorf, as Mercury in the same play, wore gold eyebrows.

Lunt also startled his audiences by pasting sequins at the corners of his eyes near the nose. He achieved the effect of flashing jewels when he stepped into the spotlight.

One of the latest stunts is to match the ornaments on charm bracelets with beauty spots. At a party given for Gertrude Lawrence by Conde Nast recently two actresses wore charm bracelets whose half-moons and stars were repeated in black beauty spots near the right eye.

1938 Suits Are Smart For An Easter In The Country

COUNTRY COMFORT
Going to the country for Easter? Country suits are very smart this year—due in part to their combination of contrasting colors and companion fabrics. For instance, blue and white stiped jacket tops a blue skirt and a mezzotone rose a wine one. The jackets are casually tailored, the skirts built for comfort and action and worn with a colorful pullover or shirt. This suit combines a green nubby wool gored skirt having tucked seams with a green and white homespun jacket trimmed in alligator and lined in mustard yellow crepe.

SPRING SWING
There is action in the skirts of the spring's new sports frocks. Pleats and gores have been used to give freedom of movement on golf links and country roads. This dress of blue, rose and cream plaid rayon crepe has a high-tied collar and an all-around pleated skirt typical of the trend. Other frocks for an Easter country week-end include Old Favorite, the shirtwaist dress (good as ever), trig two-piece frocks and jacket dresses. Biggest selections from the sports color card are green, beige, rust, blue and a big splash of wine.

TRIPLE TREAT
For your Easter-in-the-country, take along a three-piece suit in which you can travel, motor and attend Easter services in the neighborhood church. Contrast is the fashion theme of the smartest ones which combine plaid, checked or striped materials with plain fabrics, and link the suit with a cape or fingertip coat, straighter than last year's. The one you see is designed with a russet jacket and line-checked skirt of russet, blue and white wool, topped with a cape to match the skirt.

Jewelry's Best In The Eye Of The Beholder

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

Jewelry should be worn for the enjoyment of others, not yourself.

For that reason you should wear it so others will see it at its best, says Mrs. C. B. Dyer of Indianapolis, who has been collecting material about jewelry for many years.

The one exception, says Mrs. Dyer, is the wrist watch. That should be worn so the owner can read the dial most conveniently. Wrist watches should not be worn on formal occasions.

That Others May See

Cameo, emblem and crest jewelry and other pieces having a top and bottom should be worn so that the tops are up when others look at them. A cameo ring, for instance, should be worn so the face looks upside down to the owner.

A ring is considered the most intimate of gift jewelry. Necklaces are second. Bracelets are not quite so personal.

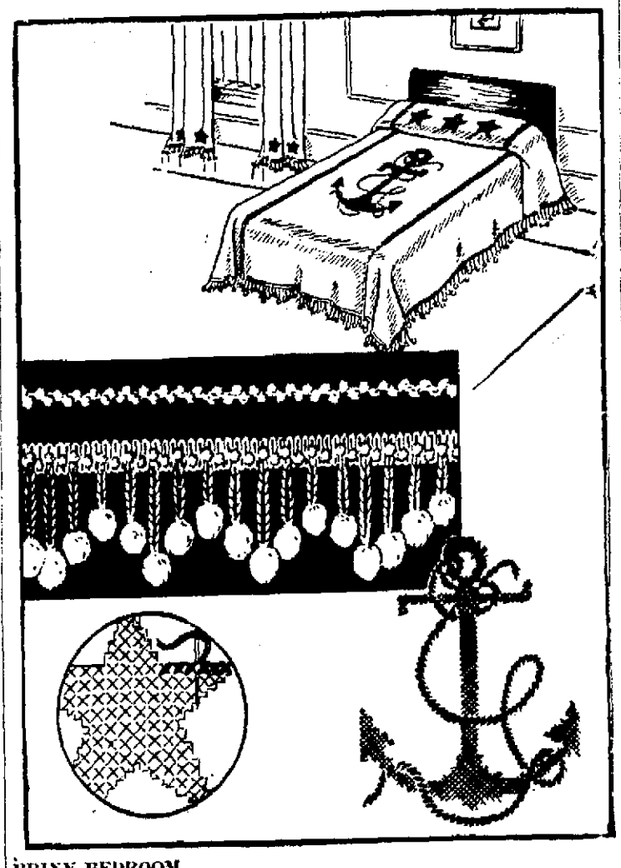

It is customary for a bridegroom to give the bride a gift of jewelry—in addition to the engagement and wedding ring—at the time of the wedding. Many choose strands of pearls, although the bride may already have received pearls—as a debutante from her grandparents or godparents, as a bride-to-be from her parents or her in-laws. (In Europe it is customary for the in-laws to give the bride elaborate gifts of jewelry.)

Wedding Ring Customs

The bride-to-be should remove her engagement ring just before the wedding ceremony so that she goes to the altar with her hand unadorned. The best man should keep the wedding ring in his vest pocket until it figures in the ceremony. Then he hands it to the bridegroom, who passes it to the clergyman, takes it back and places it on the third finger of the bride's left hand. From that time on, custom has it, the ring should never leave the bride's finger.

If the bridegroom is to wear a wedding ring the maid of honor hands it to the bride at the same time the best man hands the bride's ring to the bridegroom. The bride puts her husband's ring on his finger after he has put her ring in place.

Start Summer's Planning With Ball-Fringe Drapes

BRINY BEDROOM
The nautical note in this bedroom set goes well with the ball fringe idea in draperies.

By ELIZABETH MAY BLONDEL
Prepared By McCall's Magazine For The Freeman

If you are getting too accustoomed to the decorations in the bedroom, it really isn't hard to give it a new look without straining the budget. It's a good time to start thinking of summer.

Ball fringes will be particularly smart—they come in many styles, from plain rows on tape to charming pointed effects in linen crash or cotton materials.

A nice "decorator" idea would be a complete bedroom set of spread, window draperies and dressing table skirts, edged with fringe. A blue set might be edged with pointed white cotton ball fringe—and a popular nautical touch added in a white cross-stitch anchor in the center. This design may be stamped on with a hot iron transfer and worked in large 6-to-the-inch crosses with pearl cotton.

One full width of 36-inch material can usually be used in the center of a spread, the seams on each side being covered with a narrow white cotton braid which matches the ball fringe. The 2½-inch wide fringe is just right. Cross-stitch stars may be added to the bolster and the curtains.

The cable cord edge is a lively substitute for the fringe—especially with nautical designs.

For striking effects, the color schemes may be reversed or combined in other ways, as the ball fringes come in all the popular colors. Some fringes combine two colors.

Upside-down desserts live a topsy-turvy existence.

In the baking pan they're right side up. The fruit—or sweet mixture—is placed in the bottom of the pan and the dough is poured over it.

When they're ready to be served, however, these desserts are completely turned over—leaving the fruit or sweet on top.

There are numerous upside-down desserts to prepare at this time of the year.

Rhubarb Delight.

Rhubarb Delight, for instance, is a tart, juicy dish to match against appetites sharpened by spring zephers.

To make it:

Mix three cups of sliced, peeled rhubarb, three tablespoons of flour, one cup of granulated sugar, half a cup of orange juice, a fourth of a cup of lemon juice, a tablespoon of mixed, grated orange and lemon rind and three tablespoons of butter. Place in a shallow pan. Then cut two-inch circles of rich biscuit dough rolled half-an-inch thick. Arrange the circles on top of the rhubarb mixture. Bake the combination thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Turn out—rhubarb side up. (Note: Top the dessert with one teaspoon of cinnamon and a third of a cup of candied orange peel, nuts, raisins or cocoanut—just before you put it in the oven).

Apricot And Pineapple.

Apricot-Pineapple Upside-Down Cake is made in a frying pan.

Mix—in the frying pan—half a cup of butter and two cups of granulated sugar. Cook slowly until both are melted. Then add half a cup of pineapple juice. Cook two more minutes and cover with sliced pineapple and halves of apricots. Add a coating of your favorite sponge, gold, one-egg or yellow cake batter. Then bake the combination, in the frying pan, for thirty minutes in a moderately slow oven.

Suggestion number three is Apple-Cheese Topsy-Turvy, which tastes something like an apple pie and cheese combination.

Melt a third of a cup of butter in a frying pan. Add two cups of dark brown sugar. Cook until the two are melted and mixed. Then add two cups of sliced apples, one teaspoon of cinnamon, a third of a cup of nuts, two tablespoons of flour and half a cup of water. Cover with a biscuit dough to which half a cup of grated cheese has been added. Bake for thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

What goes best with upside-down desserts?

Whipped cream, hard sauce, fruit sauces, ice cream or sherbert.

BOTTOMS UP
A splash of whipped cream tops this portion of any fruit tip-top. The dessert may be made of canned or fresh fruit.

Helps for Housewives

The best way to assure an adequate supply of cut flowers is to plant a few rows in the vegetable garden.

See that your tools, mower and lawn roller are in condition for service. A little oil here and there will remove and prevent rust.

Plant at least a few of the outstanding novelties this year. Many of them are improvements over old varieties, and will be a welcome change.

If you haven't sent in your seed order, do so immediately. Seed stocks run short when planting season comes around, and you might not be able to get what you want.

It's time you were getting your "flats" ready to sow tender and half-hardy flowers and vegetables.

Cheese dishes require slow cooking. Otherwise the cheese will become ropey and difficult to digest. Macaroni and cheese, cheese fondues and omelets all require a moderate oven. Toasted sandwiches should be cooked only until the cheese softens.

Hard-cooked eggs will peel easily if, as soon as they are cooked, their shells are cracked slightly and the eggs are dropped into cold water for five minutes. The eggs may then be chilled and used.

To remove light mildew stains, soak the stained article for two days in sour milk or buttermilk. Then rinse it in cold water and wash it in warm water and soap suds.

Cosmos Early Klondyke Orange Flare is a true cosmos, but of a different species from the pink and red cosmos familiar to most of us. Unlike the commoner kind, which self-seeds and may be sown both in the fall and early spring, Orange Flare refuses to germinate in cold soil. It takes one hundred days to produce flowers, so if sown outdoors it can hardly flower before September. Started indoors, flowers can be had in July.

Foods that are highly spiced or filled with condiments are not good for children. For spices and condiments destroy the natural food flavor. A small amount of salt, however, is necessary.

Never rub soap directly onto blankets in laundering them. Use a soap jelly. After the blankets have been rinsed, dry them in the shade—to prevent them from turning yellow. Press satin or silk bindings with a warm, rather than a hot, iron.

A little chili sauce added to omelet or placed on top of poached eggs will turn a breakfast dish into one that is suitable for luncheon or dinner. Chili sauce also may be added to mayonnaise to be served with fish or meat cocktails.

Put cereal that is to be re-heated in a double boiler. Cover it with a thin layer of water and then put one lid on. Cook about fifteen minutes, stirring thoroughly at least three times. Use a slotted spon or fork to break up lumps.

Homespun Yarn

Fabrics labelled "vat-dyed" are, as a rule, fast to light, washing, acids and alkalies.

Vanilla should be kept in a cool place and well corked so that its flavor will not escape.

Rhubarb makes delicious tapioca or Betty pudding and shortcake; it is also good baked with sliced bananas.

Natives in India and Haiti use the juice of the cashew nut like iodine for healing cuts and abrasions of the skin.

Babies in diapers or youngsters of six will be happily clothed if their mothers follow the suggestions given in Cornell bulletin E-328, "Clothing for Children." For a free copy write to the Office of Publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, New York.

Blankets that are too short to tuck under at the bottom may be lengthened by sewing a strip of unbleached muslin on one end.

An absolutely tight paper bag with no cracks or breaks in it may be used as a moth-proof container. Scents of tar or cedar or pine oil do not kill moths already in clothing.

A glass shower is appreciated by the recent bride. Gift items include: drinking and measuring cups and glasses, colored glass bathroom equipment, ash trays and flower bowls.

Add diced spiced peaches to other diced fresh or canned fruit for an especially tasty combination.

Lawyer—Yes, he said he could use the $1,000 very nicely.

Lieut. Tale—They say Captain Jenks was very calm and collected after the accident this morning.

Col. Spin—Yes, yes, quite calm—he's still being collected, however.

Officer—No, but you should just smell his wife's.

Professor Digs—Dear me! Did I take the car out?

The April meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Shokan Reformed Church will take place Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Green in Ashokan.

Mrs. Earl North, Mrs. E. C. Burgher, Mrs. Clyde Winchell and Miss Edna Longyear attended the card party of Clinton Chapter, O. E. S., in Kingston Thursday evening.

Mrs. Kiersted was called to Boiceville Monday in the illness of her son-in-law, Charles Duloff, well known sawmill proprietor. Mr. Duloff was reported as being very ill with an aggravated case of mumps.

April 1, 1867, the town of Olive issued $75,000 of seven per cent bonds for purchase of stock in the Rondout & Oswego R. R., pursuant to act of legislature authorizing certain towns to make such issues. For a number of years thereafter the railroad commissioners of Olive were obliged to ask for tax levies in order to meet accrued interest on these bonds as no dividends were earned on the stock. The new R. & O. R. R later became the Ulster & Delaware R. R. of more recent times.

Miss Marie Aince of Kingston was the week-end guest of Miss Mary Weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ogden of Boiceville have moved into one of the Winchell houses.

Hudson Valley RR Starts Service With "Rip Van Winkle", Fast Pullman Train

Freeman Photo

The Hudson Valley Railroad, the creation of a group of model engineers who form the Hudson Valley Model Railroad Club at 541 Broadway, has inaugurated fast, all-Pullman service with a crack train, the "Rip Van Winkle." Hauled by engine No. 5021, a Hudson type passenger locomotive which is a prototype of the famous locomotive at the head end of the "Twentieth Century Limited" of the New York Central System. The "Rip Van Winkle" can attain a scale speed of almost 100 miles per hour over the two track main line of the Hudson Valley Railroad. The new train is equipped with a modern type observation car which affords its "patrons" an excellent view of the scenery of the Hudson River valley along which the Hudson Valley Railroad has its main line.

Construction Work.

Work on the system is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible although the inability to obtain some of the necessary track materials has retarded progress to some extent. Storm King mountain and tunnel, the work of Ralston Munson, has been finished, and the picture shows a freight train emerging from the tunnel and crossing the Rondout Creek trestle. The freight yards are receiving the attention of the track crew and when they are completed there will be accommodations for at least 75 freight cars with the necessary loading platforms, overhead cranes, and buildings usually found in an up-to-date yard.

The passenger yards are almost finished and are located on the outskirts of a future city which has not as yet received a name.

A town which will probably be called Rhinecliff, will be located at another point on the line. The station for this community is under construction, and when this section is completed there will be a ferry-slip with a ferryboat, probably an oil company yard with a siding and large storage tanks, and a town on the summit of a knoll in the rear of the tracks.

Henry Page and Dave Ennis are working in the engine terminal. Page is building a four-stall roundhouse with an attached yard-office, while Ennis is completing a turntable which will accommodate any of the largest freight "hogs" generally found on model systems. The engine terminal will also boast the usual yard facilities including the modern coaling station, ash pit, water tanks, sand house, and miscellaneous buildings.

Two Wrecks Occur

Although the project has been in existence all of seven months, there have only been two wrecks on the entire system, and these were not serious. Master Mechanic Gus Snell while serving as engineer on a test run of the "Rip Van Winkle," hit a bad section of track, derailing a Pullman car and swinging the end of the observation car into the Hudson river. John Schwenk, president of the system, crashed into the tail end of a string of cars left on the main line without a flag. An investigation failed to place the blame for this oversight.

The Membership

At the present time there are 15 members in the club with two applications pending. John J. Schwenk is president of the organization and also has charge of the production of ties for the roadbed. Addison Schultz is vice president and general superintendent of the railroad. Henry P. Eighmey serves as secretary and treasurer and at present also serves in the capacity of a section boss. August Snell of Middletown, one of the original members, is master mechanic. Roy W. Shunk, also of Middletown, is a member of the section gang. Dave Ennis has charge of the turntable construction and Henry Page is in charge of the roundhouse. F. W. Gleisner, trainmaster of the West Shore division of the New York Central Railroad, acts in the capacity of advisor, and it was through his cooperation that the club was able to organize and become the success that it has. Ralston Munson and King Bogardus are working out the scenic details. Charles Mehlig is taking care of the necessary machine work. Julius Lipton, Glen Kraus and Lewis Fursman are members of a section gang, and John M. Cashin is the "attorney" for the Hudson Valley Railroad.

Membership in the club is open to any man 21 years of age or over, and application blanks may be obtained through any of the members by writing to the secretary at 62 East Chester street. A regular weekly meeting is held Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock, and the members are usually working on the project on Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday. Visitors are always welcome.

At The Theatres

PREVIEWED

Broadway: "Jezebel." The flaming spirit of the old south breaks into being in the costume feature at the Broadway with Bette Davis rising to dramatic heights as the southern belle who dared convention and whose life was a series of experiences both exciting and troublesome. In a way, this Warner Brothers picture is that studio's answer to the famous "Gone With The Wind" which is now in production at another studio. All the warmth, hatreds, sentimentality and courage of a beaten southland is to be found in this triumph for Miss Davis as the picture's star and excellent support is also given by Henry Fonda, Margaret Lindsay and George Brent.

Kingston: "Bringing Up Baby." The current cinema drive toward crazy comedy productions was never demonstrated with greater or more telling effect than in this wild, hilarious and completely mad tale of a couple of flighty young people who fall in and out of love, fight, break up, and run the gamut of human emotions generally. Katherine Hepburn, until now a somewhat staid and exacting actress, lets down her hair in this comedy riot and comes out of all the excitement a radiant and successful slapstick comedian. Also in the cast is Gary Grant whose characterization is a high spot of the film. An RKO Radio offering directed by Charlie Ruggles.

Orpheum: "Fit for a King" and "Arizona Gunfighter." A typical Joe E. Brown comedy number is the first part of the Orpheum double feature bill and Mr. Brown will please his fans in another of his antic renditions of a bewildered young fellow who triumphs in the end. "Arizona Gunfighter" is the associate feature with Bob Steele starred in this rapid fire story of a reckless and fearless cowboy who throws villains and virility about with equal grace and ability.

Tomorrow

Broadway: Same.

Kingston Same.

Orpheum: "Boy of the Streets." Poverty and disillusioned youth combine to form a potent drama at the Orpheum in this story of a boy who finds his father is a shifty wastrel and who learns that the revenge of gangland is a swift stab in the back. This production is highly seasoned melodrama with a touch of reality about it and Jackie Cooper is excellent in the starring role. Maureen O'Connor is also in the cast.

Youth Depends on Bees to Pay College Tuition

Jackson, Mich.—Swarms of buzzing bees are paying for the higher education of Floyd Seper, sixteen-year-old Jackson high school student.

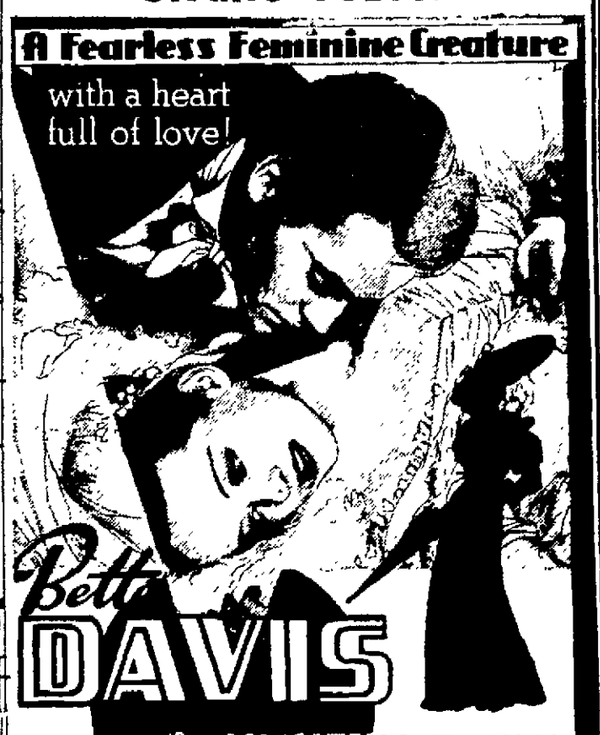

He expects to have $1,000 drawn from his hives in sale of honey before he enters college. He became an apiarist in 1933, buying a swarm of bees for a dollar, and now has 14 swarms in 20 hives.

ADD TO CHARM AND POISE WITH PHRASES FOR EVERYDAY SITUATIONS

AT EASE OR AWKWARD WITH STRANGERS?

Awkward minutes in your social and business life! Meet them with apt, gracious phrases and everybody says, "What poise she has!"

But meet them with a tied tongue—or worse an impulsive, tactless remark — and people whisper, "How crude!"

Play safe. Know what to say ahead of time. You'll get along beautifully with the strangers you met if you have tucked up your sleeve such good openers as "Perhaps we should trade biographies. I'm Edna Browne". Or "I'm sure I haven't met you before. Are you from out-of-town?"

What to say to an acquaintance who has had some trouble or loss? "I am so distressed by the news," "I've been thinking of you."

To disagree with a friend without offending him? "I may be wrong, but I can't see it that way." To refuse an invitation tactfully? "I'm so sorry I've made another date."

How to bridge that first stiff minute in a business interview? "Mr. Smith suggested I come to see you." "How interesting your work is."

And while you're at it, spruce up your vocabulary. Amazing how quickly you get a reputation as an interesting talker by the clever use of colorful phrases: "His manner was cold as a landlord's eye." "How droll and appealing Snow White's Seven Dwarfs are!"

From our 40-page booklet, 1,500 USEFUL PHRASES, get the polished, friendly phrases you need to pave your way socially, in business. For letters, for telephone conversations, for general talk.

Send 15c for our booklet, 1,500 USEFUL PHRASES, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"Safety" Pockets

You shouldn't lose things from the pockets on this beige wool spring suit. They are closed by dark blue slide fasteners to match the jacket top worn under the short coat.

Social Gleanings

Club women from every state in the Union, the District of Columbia, Alaska, other territorial possessions and many foreign countries will foregather May 10 to 17 in Kansas City for the Triennial Convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Presiding over this great gathering will be the president, Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson.

The high point of interest in the convention will be the election of officers who will preside over the destinies of the Federation during the coming three years.

Traditionally, the closing session of a convention is General Federation President's Night. This year an unique feature will be offered when Mrs. Lawson will introduce as one of her speakers her son, Edward Campbell Lawson, of Tulsa, Okla., who has selected as the subject of his address, "Palship," under which he will discuss the relationship between parents and children. Other speakers will be presented and the final feature of the convention will be the introduction of the new officers. On the same evening, preceding the official session, will be held the Roberta Campbell Lawson dinner as a final tribute to the retiring president.

The basic theme of the convention will be, "Education for Living," which is the keynote of this administration and the special convention theme will be, "For I Give You Good Doctrine, Forsake Ye Not My Law." Proverbs 4:2.

Special memorial services will be held at Grace and Holy Trinity Cathedral to honor the memory of Federation leaders who have passed away during the past three years.

The Metropolitan Women's Club has "adopted" a one-room, one-teacher school in Hancock county, Tenn., and will contribute $150 to meet the needs of the impoverished pupils next term. The teacher of the school reports that all of his 35 pupils need a hot meal daily, ten are in need of clothing, ten are without shoes, ten are undernourished, all require cod liver oil, ten are in want of milk, and 15 need soap and toothbrushes.

Sporting and social events are crowding the calendar at southern resorts as the winter season draws to a close. The social feature of the annual horse show at Aiken, S. S., this week was an al fresco luncheon served at the grounds where many groups assembled with picnic baskets.

The 3,000-page, red-backed book, the 1938 Burke's Peerage, just out, shows what the editors, aided and abetted by the royal family and diplomats, have done to the un-welcome Duchess of Windsor. The former Baltimore Belle has been hidden with these words, in small type, "His Royal Highness married at the Chateau de Cande, Monts, France, 3 June, 1937, Mrs. Wallis Warfield, dau. of the late Teakle Wallis Warfield, of Maryland, U. S. A."

To avoid inserting a photograph of the Duke of Windsor's bride, they have omitted, for the first time, all photographs of the Duke of Windsor, the Duke and Duchess of Kent, and the Duke and Dutchess of Gloucester. Even a picture of Dowager Queen Mary is "absent" the only photographs used are coronation photographs of King George VI, Queen Elizabeth, and the two young princesses.

Following the biographical data is shown "The Arms of their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester" and "The Arms of their Royal Highnesses, the Duke and Duchess of Kent." No armorial bearings follow the Windsors, and the Duke of Windsor's Arms have been altered considerably.

The "Royal Pedigree" has been brought up to date, but no mention is made of the marriage of the Duke of Windsor. The Duchess, of course, is not considered royal, so would not appear in the "Royal Pedigree" and the marriage of Duke of Windsor is not mentioned because the Anglican Church, does not recognize divorce, and therefore, the Duke is living in an unfavorable light in the eyes of the British people. Consider it snobbish, or not, this is the 1938 Burke's Peerage.

"There is no doubt that such false political Catholicism often in the course of history has brought heavy damage to the honor and esteem of the church, especially in times when opponents of Christianity boast of their own strong principles and charge Christians with spiritual cowardice.

Damages are Greatest

"The damages are far the greatest when the chosen guardians of God's moral law are guided by this spirit of false political Catholicism, especially when under the powerful and the successful of the day.

"But it may happen that the eyes of these pastors no longer recognize the wolf in sheep's clothing as is their duty, and that they believe promises in spite of the fact that said experiences and, above all, the word of the Supreme Pastor, gives them warning."

The statement said it was not the "duty of ecclesiastical authorities to speak of the economic, social and political successes of a government and to measure these same successes."

Continuing witha reference to pastors who "short-sightedly join the victorious of the day" when "simple believers of all classes, tired of the fundamental teachings of God's words, embrace Naturalism," the speaker added: ". . . False political Catholicism is to be condemned and branded.

"Before Christ's judgment chair this false Catholicism can not endure because of its inner ugliness."

Securities Make Advance Friday, First in 10 Days

The embattled securities markets had a respite Friday, making the first advance of any proportion for 10 days or more. On the New York Stock Exchange industrials, as measured in the Dow-Jones averages, opened up 2.78 points from Thursday's low closing, advanced during the day and closed up over $4 a share, to 103.02. The rails shared in the advance, gaining 0.81 for the day, to close at 19.81. Utilities were up 0.72, to 15.86.

World markets generally showed gains. Indstrial issues were up over a point in London; stocks in Paris finished strong and unofficial trading on the Amsterdam Bourse, after its close, showed a continuance of the uptrend.

Corporate bonds generally were higher, governments mixed. Hides, silk and rubber, among the commodities, showed strength.

The report prepared by Commissioner Walker of the Federal Communications Commission and made public yesterday, in which drastic government regulation of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., with a rate cut of 25 per cent, are recommended, was accompanied by a statement by Chairman McNinch emphasizing that it was "not a report of the commission" but rather a report to the commission which was in the process of being studied. The circumstances are seen as implying a wide open split within the FCC as one commissioner declared that he did not concur with Commissioner Walker's findings and criticized the manner in which hearings had been held.

Secretary Wallace in testifying before Senate committee is said to have presented a gloomy picture of the plight of the farmer under the new farm bill; predicted that further aid for certain classes of farmers would be demanded next January.

March 31 statements of four of six leading New York city banks indicate earnings for the first quarter in excess of dividend requirements, but lower than in the 1937 quarter. Two failed by slight margin to cover dividend requirements.

Conference Held To Urge Speed on Stadium Project

Disturbed over the progress being made on the municipal stadium project, Mayor C. J. Heiselman held a conference with Arthur F. Hallinan, in charge of the Ulster county WPA, his assistant, Frank Campbell, and Robert Milligan, the foreman in charge of the work, to see what could be done to speed work on the construction of the concrete structure.

As a result of the conference the city has assigned Matt Haines, one of the skilled carpenters of the Board of Public Works, to assist the WPA workmen in making the forms used in the concrete work.

On the WPA shift of workers on the project there is but one carpenter each week and several carpenter's helpers. The WPA plans to search through its list of registered workers and ascertain what men can qualify as carpenter's helpers and place them at work on the stadium.

The foundations of the structure are now being laid and there is considerable form work to be done. The stadium will be of re-inforced concrete with outside brick veneer.

As there are only a trifle over 100 WPA working days before the football season opens the mayor is anxious that there be no delay and that the work of constructing the stadium be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. Under the WPA regulations the men are only allowed to work some 16 days a month.

Roosevelt Agrees On Change

the special reserved sections and people stood in line in the corridors waiting for a chance to get in.

House opponents of the government Reorganization Bill, heartened by their success in beating an administration effort to shut off debate, predicted today the measure's defeat.

They said the 191 to 149 vote by which the House turned down last night a motion aimed at cutting short the discussion of the bill assured an eventual majority against it.

Foes of the measure had followed a strategy of delay, hoping a deluge of telegraphic protests against the bill would swing wavering members to their side. Telegraph companies said they had delivered about 150,000 messages to representatives.

Despite the vote, administration leaders insisted the proposal to give the President broad powers to reorganize executive departments was sure of enactment.

When the House had expressed itself, administration leaders said they would make no further effort to limit debate.

Some opponents of the legislation talked of attempting to kill it as soon as the House met today by refusing to take the measure up for consideration.

Others counseled continued delay of a vote until next week.

Joseph Greenwald Dies

Santa Barbara, Calif., April 2 (AP)—Death upset the theater's tradition, "The show must go on." A capacity audience was dismissed when Joseph Greenwald, 48, veteran actor, collapsed on the stage and died within 10 minutes at the Lobero Theater last night. He had just uttered the opening lines of a speech in the first act of "The Golden Boy" when he crumpled to the floor. Greenwald began his theatrical career as a boy in New York city. His Broadway roles included Jeeter Lester in "Tobacco Road," Solomon Levy in "Abie's Irish Rose" and Milton Markowitz in "The Camels Are Coming."

Scarlet Fever Breaks Out Thursday at Creek Locks

Rosendale, April 2.—Scarlet fever broke out in the Creek Locks school on Thursday when little Frances Callivaccio of Bloomington was stricken.

Dr. L. G. Rymph of Bloomington, the local health officer, visited the school later and instructed the children that they should see a doctor immediately at the first signs of sore throat.

This is the fourth case in Rosendale during the present epidemic. The others are in Tillson. All are reported doing nicely.

Girl Reared as Barefoot Scorns Shoes in College

Minneapolis.—Ingrid Larsen, a Hawaiian at heart despite her Norwegian name, received a "holoko" which she prizes as suitable trimmings for her barefoot habit while at home in the Delta Delta Delta sorority at the University of Minnesota.

A "holoko" is the dress she became accustomed to when she lived in the Hawaiian islands as a child.

Miss Larsen is nineteen and a commercial art student at the university. She was born and passed the first dozen or so years of her life on one of the smaller of the island group. She grew up like other girls on the island and never learned to wear shoes. In fact, she never donned a pair of shoes until she was twelve and her parents moved to Honolulu. She never has learned to like them.

The girls in the sorority house were shocked when Ingrid came down to a formal dinner dressed in the "holoko" and without shoes.

"I don't care what any one says," Miss Larsen explained. "I'll be nice and wear shoes out of doors while I'm in polite society. But when I get indoors, off they come."

Clock Stops When Pastor Tenders His Resignation

Toronto, Ont.—When Rev. W. J. Smith, pastor of Bathhurst United church, tendered his resignation, a 66-year-old clock stopped ticking and did not start again until nine years later, when he paid a brief visit to his former pulpit.

When the pastor left, all efforts to start the clock proved futile, and the ancient timepiece was relegated to the minister's vestry as a historic relic. That was in 1925.

When Smith entered the vestry in 1934 the familiar ticktock of the clock was heard, to the amazement of the sexton, and continued after he left. It still keeps time.

The clock was presented to the church by Benjamin (Old King) Cole, a negro church member and a former slave.

Ringers in Three Suburbs

Cleveland.—A horseshoe-pitching court in the yard of Louis D. Henrick is so situated that when a shoe is pitched from one stake to another it passes through Shaker Heights, Cleveland Heights and University Heights, three Cleveland suburbs.

2,500,000 Bug Species and None of 'Em Us

Cleveland.—Are we men or insects? Insects include 2,500,000 "species," while the world population includes only one human species, comprised of 2,000,000,000 individuals, Dr. James C. Gray, Western Reserve university biologist, said in a lecture.

And the insects have been on earth 50,000,000 years, while man has been here only 500,000, he added. And only 700,000 of the insects have been "named."

The average length of a passenger's trip on airliners in the United States is 432 miles and the average speed of a transport plane is 153 miles per hour.

Why do women work? For the same reason that men work. They have to.

Dr. Sanford Calls Attention to a Pneumonia Movie

Recommending that every resident should see the moving picture, "A New Day", which reveals the dangers of pneumonia and which will be shown in the Broadway Theatre on April 6, 7 and 8, Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, said today:

Pneumonia now takes more lives annually than does any other communicable disease. Part of the heavy burden of reducing mortality from this disease rests upon the individual citizen. This is a responsibility which every adult should share by cooperating in the broad campaign that public health forces are conducting in an effort to reduce the ravages of the disease.

Today to aid the doctor in his treatment of pneumonia, effective sera are available which have already played an important part in saving lives that might otherwise have been lost. There are 32 known types of pneumonia and sera of unquestioned value have been produced in Types 1, 2, 5, 7 and 8 and perhaps others. Fortunately, the majority of lobar pneumonia cases fall within these relatively few types. If early in the disease the right amount of serum is given after the case has been typed, the patient's progress toward recovery in many instances seems almost miraculous. We know that much more can be accomplished by making serum treatments more widely available and by administering it not later than the third or fourth day following the onset of the disease. Therefore, the disease must be reported early, and for this the responsibility rests upon someone in the victim's family, who should see that the case is put under the doctor's care without delay.

The extreme importance of these measures is shown graphically in the short film which will be shown at the Broadway Theater, Kingston, N. Y., on April 6, 7, and 8. This picture is entitled, "A New Day" and is sponsored jointly by the United States Public Health Service and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. It shows how a neglected cold can develop into pneumonia and how the possible tragedy of a mother's death was averted by the use of modern weapons for fighting pneumonia. The public is urged to see this film in its engagement here. It drives home a message which will stand you in good stead if pneumonia ever strikes in your family.

Franco Drives Toward Sea

in the civil war in violation of the non-intervention agreement.

A number of militiamen protested against going back into the war.

Besides the soldiers, there were some 2,000 other fugitives, mostly women, children and old men who had crossed the border in the past three days as the insurgents, driving rapidly through Aragon into Catalonia, smashed government resistance.

These noncombatant refugees, as fast as they crossed the frontier, were moved into camps in the interior of France. They came down through the mountain passes hungry, ill-clad and, in many cases, suffering from illness.

Officials said these civilians would be granted asylum if they chose to stay in France, but military fugitives were a problem only the cabinet could decide.

Fly Casting Demonstration at Sportsmen's Meeting April 5 In the Municipal Auditorium

The sportsmen of Ulster county are anxiously awaiting the arrival of W. R. "Fly Rod" Bill Cook, who will give a demonstration of fly casting and instruction to those who desire information on this art at the Sportsmen's Night being sponsored by the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association at the municipal auditorium, Tuesday, April 5. The doors of the auditorium will be open at 7:30 sharp and at 8 o'clock Bill will show what it is possible to do with a fly rod and a fly.

He is one of the best known fly casters in the country and has taught people from coast to coast the art of fishing with a fly. They don't come too big in fresh water for him to tackle with a rod of this type. Whether it be sunfish or "Tiger" muskie they are all the same to him—its a fly rod and nothing else will do. Immediately after his demonstration he will give instructions to those wishing to avail themselves of the opportunity.

Following the demonstration and instruction period a contest will be held both for the fly caster and the plug caster. Several prizes have been donated and one each will be awarded in the following classes: One each to the best man and woman fly caster; one each to the best man and woman plug caster; one each to the best boy and girl fly caster under 16 years of age and one each to the best boy and girl plug caster under 16 years of age.

On account of the height of the ceiling in the auditorium, no casting for distance will be attempted. Points will be awarded on placement, accuracy and form. Competent judges will preside and their decisions will be final. In addition to the plug and fly casting members of the Rifle and Pistol Club will be present and will have the rifle range open to demonstrate what they can do with a rifle or pistol.

W. R. COOK

Invitations have been extended to the sporting goods dealers to exhibit at this meeting and it is presumed that some of them will have some of the latest in rods, reels and other fishing lures and gadgets which attract the fish and the sportsmen as well. No charge of any kind will be made and it is free and open to the public. All other Sportsmen's Associations in the county are invited to attend and bring their friends with them.

ny-New York Race Handicaps—Runabout Goes to College—'Confidence' Returns

By RICHARD O. GRUVER

Marathon Course 130 Miles

It s still six weeks until May 15, but on the tip of every ical tongue in this vicinity one subject takes precedence all others. And that is the Albany-to-New York outboard athon.

The distance for the race, the 11th annual, again has been for 130 miles, Charles F. Chapman, chairman of the race mmittee of the Middle Atlantic Outboard Association, an- nced today. The start will be from the Albany Yacht Club h the finish at De George's boathouse, just below the foot of ckman street, in New York city, the same as last year.

Starting time for the long river grind has been set for 8 m. (Daylight Saving Time) with the Class A outboard hydro- anes leading the field. Handicaps announced by J. S. Y. rson, of Philadelphia, give the Class A drivers a 48-minute and ur second advantage over the more powerful Class F outfits. he Class B and C flights will start in between according to their lowances, with the theoretical finish for all classes timed at 1:37:59 a. m.

The time of start of the four outboard hydroplane asses is:

Class A—8:00:00.
Class B—8:14:33.
Class C—8:40:39.
Class F—8:48:04.

Outboard runabouts will compete in a separate division, starting at 9:15 o'clock. No official provision has been made for inboard craft in this year's race. While the race committee will time any inboard boats, drivers in these classes must make their own committee arrangements and not start before 10:30 a. m.

William R. Hearst, Jr., was unanimously appointed honorary chairman of the race committee. All entries should be sent to Secretary William T. Crawford, Jr., M. A. O. A., Park Central Hotel, New York city.

Greek With an Accent

Dick Shults, who has made it his business to know, says you can't paint a house with applesauce. By the same token you can't teach paint store lads and lassies Greek. This week we called Dick to learn his plans for his racy Chris Craft runabout which sails from the Rondout Yacht Club. The amiable young lady who answered the 'phone did her best to help us, but Dick was in Newburgh and she didn't know his launching plans. Then when we inquired the name of his boat she said she didn't know.

"It's Greek. I know that much," she said.

"Electra?" we inquired, pulling mightily on the noun, and mourning for Eugene O'Neill.

"No, that's not it. It means 'Flying Horse.' Wait a moment, please." She called to a clerk whose subsequent mirth at his own lack of classicism "told us off" before the young lady returned to the 'phone.

So we'll just suppose Dick's going to launch that boat. That's all we can pass along. The remainder is Greek—to Dick, his assistants, to you—(and to me!). However, in deference to Dick's academic varnish rest assured the Greeks have got a word for it.

"Confidence" Returns

Joe Huber, one of The Freeman's own, is as faithful a supporter of this column as exists. This week he contributed this, and in his own words we give it to you: "During the last week John Schussler was busy painting the hull and overhauling the engine on the 'Confidence,' a large motor boat owned by John A. Fischer, of Abeel street. The 'Confidence' was owned formerly by Gary Bridge of Sleightsburg, who used it as a passenger boat on the river and creek. Since Mr. Bridge has been engaged in the fruit peddling business, the boat has belonged to Mr. Fischer.

"The most important job of the season for many years has been a week's work at Poughkeepsie, where the craft is used to lay out the buoys marking the lanes for the intercollegiate regatta. It has been a custom to bring the boat forth for its initial appearance each spring when Frank "Shad" Mower takes over the wheel to spin a load of interested spectators out to view the outboard races on the river."

Saga of a Sailboat

Some years ago Harry S. Hutton, Harry Frey and Wesley Thompson went from the Rondout Yacht Club to Vincent Astor's boathouse across the Hudson. There they saw a sleek mahogany sail boat. It had been there for six seasons. None remembered that it had been used, at least to any great extent.

Harry Hutton said he'd write to Mr. Astor about the gleaming craft. He was informed by Mr. Astor in various correspondence that the boat was built expressly for Hudson river sailing, that it had cost a sum or two to build, could be had very reasonably, could be had "for nothing," Mr. Astor finally said, "if you'd promise me you'd keep it in the Hudson." Mr. Astor cited the vessel's points, its equipment, its mahogany construction, its 600-pound lead keel. In short it was one of those gems that gives a catboat sailor a devil of an inferiority complex.

However, the Rondout Yacht Club boys had to refuse, for, since the advent of the oil companies nearby, various dockage alterations had effaced what anchorage there was at the club. This meant the boat would have to winter in a tough spot, what with no boathouse or crib.

Robert Len, telephone company employe, learned of the negotiations and purchased the Astor sail boat for a price below $200. Now he lives in Poughkeepsie and keeps his boat at the Poughkeepsie Yacht Club. And, incidentally, he loves his little ship.

Freeman Captures Mercantile Bowling Title for Second Year

With Bob Hanley and his Jones Dairy team setting all league records in the last game of the season, the National Mercantile league at the Y. M. C. A. finished last night.

The Freeman repeated its victory of last year, taking the league championship after a last week tie with the Post Office was broken when the H. and R. team defeated the Post Office three games to break the deadlock at a postponed game roll off Wednesday night. Paced by John Hartman, the Freeman went on to win last night with a three game victory over the Fuller No. 2 team.

The Jones Dairy team after a slow start in which they dropped the first game to the Y Couples club, took the second game by a slight margin and then with Hanley and Robinson on a striking spree, set the high team game total for the season, with Hanley taking the high single prize with a sparkling 235 and the high three game mark with 590.

Amendments to Conservation Law For Deer Hunters

A copy of the amended conservation law, in relation to the taking of deer in New York state as passed at the last session of the legislature and which now awaits the signature of the governor in order to become effective, has been received by the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association and excerpts from the same regarding the changes are as follows:

In the counties of Clinton, Essex, Franklin, Fulton, Hamilton, Jefferson, Lewis, Warren, Washington and those portions of the counties of Herkmer and Oneida north of the New York Central Railroad the open season remains the same, (October 15 to November 15).

In the counties of Columbia, Delaware, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Otsego, Putnam, Rensselaer, Schoharie, Sullivan and Ulster from December 1st to December 15th.

In the counties of Broome, Cortland, Livingston, Steuben and Wyoming the first to the seventh day of December, 1938, except on the intervening Sunday.

In these five counties only shotguns loaded with a slug or single ball or bow and arrows may be used in taking deer. In the counties of Dutchess, Otsego, Schoharie and that portion of Herkimer south of the main line of the New York Central railroad only shotguns loaded with slugs or buckshot may be used. In all other counties a rifle or shotgun may be used.

San Francisco, April 2 (AP)—Professional baseball officially opens its 1938 season in America today when the eight Pacific Coast League clubs answer the umpires' familiar "play ball!"

Phantom Pitcher Act Goes Big

Al Schacht

Strictly A Professional Jester

The top clowns of the Grapefruit league, of course, are Nick Altrock and Al Schacht. Altrock, the Washington coach, tells jokes in a gruff voice, and looks funny without trying to with his cap askew over his ruffled grey hair and fat rolling smoothly over his barrel-like midriff. Schacht, former Boston Red Sox coach, is strictly a professional clown now. He breezes from one training camp to another, entertaining the fans with his antics before the exhibition games. His phantom pitcher act is a pip but he keeps the fans in stitches with everything he does.

Baseball Training Camps Preview

(By The Associated Press)

Lake Charles, La.—Burgess Whitehead, the New York Giants' second baseman who missed all the training season at Baton Rouge because of his slow recovery from an appendicitis operation, brought his doctor along when he reported. The doctor is to see that he doesn't over-exert and the Giants have given Whitey permission to work as he pleases, but he thinks he'll get into uniform within a few days.

Bradenton, Fla.—General Manager Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers, after viewing his club, wants to discourage any talk of Brooklyn's finishing in the first division. "We have a better club than last year," he said, but otherwise there are "too many ifs."

New Orleans—The New York Yankees seem to be trying to prove they're not entirely a team of sluggers, but sometimes they miss out. They pulled off three snappy double plays against Tallahassee yesterday and missed a triple play because Red Wolfe couldn't hold a hot liner, but George Selkirk backslid into the Yankee habit of letting himself get picked off first base, spoiling their record for smartness.

Joe Louis Scores Knockout Victory, Schmeling Next

Chicago, April 2 (AP)—Brown Bomber Joe Louis, with another notch in his blazing fistic guns, trained his sights today on the only man ever to bring him down—Max Schmeling.

A slashing, fifth round knockout last night of Harry Thomas, Louis' third successful heavyweight title defense since he won the crown last June, was "Just another fight" to the youthful Detroit negro. Ahead of him, and constantly in his mind, was the long-awaited chance of settling an old score.

A high percentage of the 10,168 spectators who paid $15,000 to watch the champion floor Thomas six times probably are of the opinion that Joe has an excellent chance of balancing his books with the German battler when they meet June 22.

Apostoli Ready For Title Match

New York, April 2 (AP)—Fred Apostoli, the uncrowned king of something or other, is right on top of that middleweight championship. Any minute now you will hear a bleat from his manager, Larry White, to the effect that his boy is claiming the title.

White orated wildly on the subject last night. It was a timely speech. Fred had just given Lee, the second edition of the Nebraska wildcat series, a terrific two-handed going over in 15 rounds. It was his second decision over the stocky westerner.

Apostoli made the fight go his way and to the 15,218 fans, who had expected a replay of the pair's thrilling match of early February, it was as exciting as a trolley ride. The winner, who weighed 160¾, four pounds more than Lee, never knocked his foe down, but he bloodied his nose and Lee's eyes were puffed and his ribs and back sore and red in the dressing room.

Comforter Softball Organization Held

With the election of Hank Eighmey to his third successive year as manager, the Reformed Church of the Comforter softball team organized for the season, Friday evening.

Last year the Comforters won the Church League championship, defeating the Fair Street Reformed team in two out of three games in the playoff.

The members of last year's team are again expected to play and in addition several new players have signified the intention of doing their bit for the Comforters.

The first practice session is scheduled for Tuesday evening, April 5, at 5:30 o'clock at Hutton Park, and all players are requested to report for practice.

Outboard Race Sunday, May 15

New York, April 2 (AP).—The eleventh annual Albany-New York motorboat marathon May 15 will cover the same course as last year, from the Albany Yacht Club to DeGeorge's boathouse at the foot of Dyckman street, New York, it was announced today.

The official starting times, all Eastern Daylight Time, were announced as follows: Outboards, Class A, 8 a. m.; Class B, 8:14:33; Class C, 8:40:39; Class F, 8:48:04; outboard runabouts, 9:15; all inboard classes, 10:30.

Spilling the maples for 707 Friday night, Rube Leventhal shot his second 700 series of the season, leading Wiltwyck Golf Club pinsters to a new season's record of 3078 in the Colonial League.

Leventhal came within nine pins of tying George Flemmings' league high record of 716, with strings of 234, 258 and 215. He needed a double in the 10th, but left three pins standing after the first strike.

Jack Wilson, Leventhal's teammate, fell short of a 700 series by turning in a 678, Ben Fein's triple was 605.

The 3078 mark betters the Wiltwyck's own 3073.

No Record Highs In ABC So Far

Chicago, April 2 (AP)—If the 1938 American Bowling Congress Championship figures are to be record highs, as was generally predicted before the firing began, the high records had better begin to appear soon.

Last night, the defending team champions, the Krakow Furniture Co. of Detroit abdicated on a 2722 count. Thus another favored contender joined the group which included Chicago's Monarch Beers (2915), Chicago's Mineralites, (2950), and Milwaukee's Heil Quality Products, (2926).

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

By The Associated Press.

Chicago—Joe Louis, 202¾, Detroit, world heavyweight champion, knocked out Harry Thomas, 196, Eagle Bend, Minn. (5).

New York—Fred Apostoli, 160¾, San Francisco, outpointed Glen Lee, 156¾, Edison, Neb. (15).

Dallas, Tex.—Lew Jenkins, 137, Sweetwater, Tex., knocked out Jackie Sharkey, 136, Minneapolis (2).

In a five rounder that stole the spotlight last night at the municipal auditorium boxing show, Frankie Thompson, Ballston Lake battler, outpointed Georgie Spidaro, Albany's welterweight champion of the Adirondack A. A. U.

Thompson, fighting to prove that the title rightfully belongs to him, and that he would have won it if he had not been ruled out of the Golden Gloves tournament for tardiness at the weigh-in, gave the fans a thrill a second in winning last night.

His skirmish with Spidaro was worth the price of admission alone, and saved the day for the Kingston A. C. which had the ill fortune of losing the main and semi-final bouts on technical knockout decisions early.

Red Van Alstyne, middleweight champ, was cut over the left eye in the feature scrap, and lost to Tony Viscio, and Eddie Steele, suffered a bad wound in the third round dropping the decision to Frankie Emerson of St. Remy on a technical.

But, despite the technicals, the card held plenty of thrills, especially that Thompson-Spidaro battle. Trailing Spidaro for two rounds, Thompson let loose with a hard right to the jaw in the third and sent the champion down for a count of nine. The bell interrupted.

The fourth round was a sizzling affair that saw Spidaro go down twice, the bell saving him on his last trip to the deck. In the fifth Spidaro tried to win back his advantage, but Thompson kept on him every second, and copped the decision.

The weights, Spidaro 145, Thompson 143.

An old cut over his left eye, opened on Eddie Steele in the second frame of his semi-final with Frankie Emerson, and gave the St. Remy farm boy his second t. k. o. in a row over the Poughkeepsie Wild Man. Referee Singer stopped the duel in the third frame, on advice of the club physician, Dr. Maurice Silk.

A month ago, Emerson beat Steele the same way, and last night's match was a return to give Steele a chance to prove the win was a fluke. His followers booed the decision, but probably would have agreed with it if they could have their idol's eye cared for by Dr. Silk.

Red Van Alstyne, returning here to settle an unpopular decision of two weeks ago, given to Tony Viscio of Schenectady, lost his match and the chance to represent the Adirondack A. A. U. in the national Golden Gloves at Boston on account of a cut eye.

The Boston trip meant a lot to the Ravena 160 pound title holder, in his climb up the ladder of pugilism. "I'm sorry I ever accepted this Kingston rematch," he said. Red, a crack football player, and all around athlete, was upset at the booing of the bleacher fans when the fight was stopped.

Prelim Results

Jackie Martin, 110, Troy, decisioned Leo Sarinelli, 113, Diamond Belt champion, Albany, five rounds.

Frankie Fabbie, 134, Kingston, outpointed Charlie Elacqua, 153, Albany, three rounds.

Charlie Ralgins, 130, Saugerties, won over Dave Pino, 141, Albany, three rounds.

Rudy Prese, 168, Ravena, decisioned Frankie Kouhout, 165, Kingston, three rounds.

The officials: Bill Singer, referee; Dr. Maurice Silk, examining physician; Jack Finerty and R. B. Blakeslee, judges; Mort Finch, timekeeper; Sam Riber, announcer.

Two technical knockouts on account of cut eyes dampened the boxing program at the auditorium last night....But, such things can't be helped...."Better to stop a fight than have a kid ruined for life", says Referee Bill Singer .... He's right .... Dr. Maurice Silk examined Eddie Steele and Red Van Alstyne before they were ruled out....Because of that cut last night, Van Alstyne cannot box in the national Golden Gloves at Boston..... What an opportunity to lose, after winning the Adirondack A. A. U. championship....And then that crowd in the bleachers booed ....Poor Red's the guy who should squawk....And, Eddie Steele won't be able to box for at least two weeks....The "nonsense" fans wanted him to continue last night, too.....Regardless of the two T. K. O's, the customers got their money's worth in the bouts previouse.

Mike Jacobs burned up the phone and telegraph wires to the coast the other day to tell Ancil Hoffman to keep Maxie Baer in shape for a rush assignment ... figure it out for yourself. ... Unless Lou Finney starts to hit, Connie Mack figures on opening the season with old Mule Haas in right field for the Athletics. ... The Boston hockey Bruins lost about $500 per man by dropping their playoff series to Toronto. ... Which, as they say on Cauliflower Corner, is real cabbage.

Ed Foster, the National Boxing Association secretary, sails today for Rome and the world boxing conference. .... They picked an all-Monroe county basketball team in Michigan—and three of the lads have only one eye. ... Each lost the sight of one eye in boyhood accidents. ... Man Mountain Dean, beard and all, is caddying for Johnny Revolta in the Augusta National ... and the other pros are remembering that the last time the rassler did it, Johnny finished in the money in a California tournament. .... Southwest sock experts write that Lew Jenkins, young bantam doing business around Dallas, packs a wallop like a 160-pounder. ... Lou Ambers, the lightweight champ, is slated to headline the Kentucky Derby eve fight card at Louisville. ... Ancil Hoffman, who already has his hands full with the Baer boys, is willing to lay 25 G's on the line for Chuck Crowell's contract. ... Figures the coast heavy is a comer.

Esopus Members Ask More Time

Application was made at special term before Justice Harry E. Schirick Friday by the city of New York for extending the time for Commissioners of Appraisal John Wadlin, William F. Hoppin and Howard Beecher to report. This commission is known as Esopus Commission, Section 1. Before it has come claims from property owners along the Esopus creek where the Esopus creek has been used to convey waters from Gilboa reservoir to the Ashokan and also the matter of fixing awards for a right in perpetuity which the city of New York has acquired for future use of the creek for this purpose.

Vincent G. Connelly appeared for the city of New York.

Justice Schirick signed an order granting an extension for eight months for filing the report of the commission and allowed six months for the taking of additional testimony. One of the reasons for granting an extension of time to eight months for the filing of the report was the fact the commission now has under advisement the New York Central Railroad claim. Testimony in this case is now in and the commission had the case under advisement. The railroad claims damages arising out of damage to its tracks and right of way because of the highwater in the Esopus creek which flows along the railroad right of way for a great part of the distance between Cold Brook and Allaben. Testimony in the matter is quite voluminous.

TOWNSEND NEWS

The Problem of Young People.

The Townsend Recovery Plan not only provides for the aged but also solves the economic problems of youth.

Dr. J. W. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education, reported three and a half million young men between the ages of 15 and 25, graduates of high schools and colleges, have no jobs and are in dire distress. The position of the young women is even more pathetic. These young people have been made social outcasts. They have been condemned for socialistic activities. They have a right to demand "Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

Youth will not tolerate present conditions. They hesitate to turn to Communism. That is why increasing numbers of them are taking up the Townsend Plan. They know that retiring those over 60 gives them an opportunity to become useful citizens and home makers.

Youth knows that want and hunger are unnecessary in a land of plenty. It knows it can produce all it needs if given the opportunity. It is not willing to wait to "fill dead men's shoes." Youth does not want a mountain camp under martial law, segregated from society. Young people want homes and a place in the civic life of the nation.

The above is taken from the Townsend Plan Ready Reference, a 100 page booklet (25 cents). For it, address Box 304, Kingston, N. Y.

Verdicts of $1,300 And $200 Awarded

The last two actions to come before the March term of supreme court until an adjourned date which has been set for April 27, at 11 o'clock, resulted in two verdicts for plaintiffs. Rosario Scandariato of Highland was awarded $1,300 and his brother, Vito, was awarded $200 in actions brought against N. C. Purdie Corporation, a trucking corporation which owned the tractor-trailer which struck the truck of defendant last December at Sloatsburg. The larger award included the damages to the truck of plaintiffs and also an award for personal injuries. The lesser award was for injuries.

Sued to recover damages arising out of a collision between the trailer and the Chevrolet of plaintiffs, the defendant alleged the truck which was struck from the rear, was not properly lighted. Plaintiffs denied this and told of having had their lights tested a few miles back when they gased up. They also had the truck equipped with reflectors. Michael Nardone appeared for plaintiffs and George F. Roesch for the defendants.

During the March term Justice Bergan has disposed of an exceptionally large number of cases. Many of them were settled after they had been moved for trial.

Justice Bergan recessed the court and dismissed the jurors until Wednesday, April 27, at 11 o'clock, when No. 117, Charles T. McKenzie and other, plaintiffs, vs. Edward Butchard and another, an action for money damages and injunction, will be tried. Robert G. Groves for plaintiff, and Charles de la Verne for defendants. Jurors will return at that time.

Diedolf Property Sold at Auction

An action in foreclosure of a mortgage brought by the Rondout National Bank of Kingston vs. Edward J. Diedolf and wife of Bloomington has resulted in the sale of the residence property by the referee, Judge Bernard A. Culloton.

Cashin & Ewig appeared for the plaintiffs and the property was offered for sale at public auction on March 26, at the court house. It was bid in by the plaintiffs for the sum of $2,939.37. The amount due on the mortgage and notes, taxes and interest was $2,610.96.

Truth Comes Out

Washington, April 2 (AP)—A typographical error in the Government Reorganization bill prompted Rep. Taber (R-N. Y.) to declare that the truth had come out at last. Taber spotted a line referring to the bill as the "Reorganization Act of 1398." "It carries us back to the feudal system," he shouted. "Our liberties are being destroyed. It's the one time the God's honest truth was told about the bill."
